$50,000 CARROLL PLOT

Today's Testimony on Pages 14 and 15

By JOHN BRADFORD MAIN
Staff Correspondent of the Boston Evening American

SOUTH PARIS, Me., Aug. 11—Former Deputy Sheriff Francis M. Carroll threatened the life of Paul N. Dwyer when Paul refused to write two extortion letters, it was charged today in a statement read at the Carroll trial.

The statement, made by Dwyer himself to a federal agent in Thomaston State Prison, said the extortion letter incident took place in December, 1936, or ten months prior to the Dr. James G. Littlefield slaying, for which Carroll is on trial.

Roosevelt Gets Georgia's LL.D

By GEORGE DURNO
International News Service Staff Correspondent

ATHENS, Ga., Aug. 11—"Consistent progressive action is better than following either those who want to slow up or those who promise they will hand you the moon on a silver platter a week after they are elected."

In these words, President Roosevelt today accepted an LL. D. degree from the University of Georgia and simultaneously expounded his New Deal theory of economic and social progress.

Twenty-four hours earlier, at Warm Springs, Ga., the President had publicly called upon Georgia Democrats to defeat Senator Walter F. George, an administration opponent, in the September 14 primary. Many present at the cap-and-gown ceremonies interpreted the executive's words here as an additional warning he wanted whole-hearted support in Congress from members of his party or else their retirement from public life.

HE BACKS CAMP

George voted against the President on Supreme Court enlargement, wages and hours and government reorganization.

Former Governor Eugene Talmadge, one of the contestants for the Senate seat, fell out with the administration two years ago.

William McRae, another candidate, is running on a Townsend old age pension platform.

The President flatly told Georgia voters yesterday that he hoped U. S. Attorney Lawrence Camp would be the state's next senator.

This afternoon Mr. Roosevelt was making a second speech at Barnesville, Ga., and his aides freely predicted he would then "go down the line" for Camp and "crack down hard" on George.

In accepting the university degree, however, the President carefully refrained from any direct politics.

SOUTH'S PROBLEMS

He contented himself with a studious dissertation on the economic problems of the South and an assertion that his administration, through the wage-hour bill and other legislation, had moved toward solving those problems.

"In the long run," said Mr. Roosevelt, "the best way for your national government to assist state and local educational objectives is to tackle the national aspects of economic problems—to eliminate discriminations between one part of the country and another—to raise purchasing power and thereby create wealth in those sections where it is far too low . . ."

And in conclusion, the President barbed another political shaft.

"At heart, Georgia shows devotion to the principles of democracy," he declared. "It has occasional lapses, but it really does not believe either in demagoguery or feudalism dressed up in democratic clothes."

Tonight, en route to Washington, the presidential train will pause at Greenville, S. C., long enough for a rear platform appearance on the part of the President. It was predicted quite definitely by his confidants, however, that he would steer carefully clear of the senatorial primary fight between incumbent Senator "Cotton Ed" Smith, an administration objector, and Governor Olin Johnston, a "100 per cent New Dealer."

Tom Girdler Asks Senate Probe of CIO

By ARTHUR HACHTEN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11—Tom M. Girdler, board chairman of the Republic Steel Corporation, demanded today that the Senate civil liberties committee investigate John L. Lewis' CIC.

In a statement prepared for delivery before the committee in its inquiry into the "Little Steel" strike of 1937, Girdler charged the New Deal with plunging the country into "unprecedented turmoil."

The Senate committee itself, he said, had conducted a one-sided investigation into the strike and circumstances surrounding it. And by one-sided, he explained, he meant in favor of the CIO.

The steel executive, leader of the steel cmopanies thatb roke the CIO's strike, demanded further that the Wagner labor relations act be overhauled completely to give the employer a chance for fair play.

He termed the present conduct of the National Labor Relations Board under the act as "tryannical."

Republic Steel Attacks Wagner Act

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11 (INS)—Counsel for the Republic Steel Corporation today served notice on the NLRB of a new attack on constitutionality of the Wagner Labor Act.

Directing fire at points not covered in the original Supreme Court decisions sustaining the act, Counsel Luther Day today protested to the board against a proposed finding against the corporation.

Bug Food

Chemists Feed 'Em Sandwiches

BELTSVILLE Md., Aug. 11 (AP)—They're feeding free sandwiches to insects at the National Agriculture Research Center.

Between 60 and 70 sandwiches are served daily to as many cutworms. The sandwiches consist of two leaves with glucose spread between them.

When the glucose is eaten, chemists test the cutworms to determine whether the glucose is being transformed into animal starch, a substance which is stored in body cells for reserve food.

The work is part of tests of how bugs develop, so that scientists will know better how to destroy them.

See A. F. L. Victory

LEAD IN LABOR SPLIT—Francis J. Gorman, president of United Textile Workers of America, and Joseph Sylvia, former C. I. O. organizer, who will play prominent part in union convention, August 21, in Providence. Both are now out of C. I. O. ranks and predict A. F. of L. will soon win back bulk of textile workers.

Woolen Union Faces Split

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Aug. 11—Possibility that strong textile unions plan to break away from their present CIO affiliation was seen today as officers of the Federation of Woolen and Worsted Workers of America called a convention to be held here August 21.

At the same time it was announced that Francis J. Gorman, president of the United Textile Workers of America, would explain his resignation from the CIO Textile Workers Organizing Committee, one of the strongest arms of John J. Lewis' labor empire.

Gorman, who thus far has withheld the reason for his break with CIO, declared he would bare his troubles with the Lewis organization and lead a fight to carry textile workers back into the fold of the American Federation of Labor.

CHARGE "STEAL" PLOT

The call to convention was issued in a letter to unions throughout the nation from Henry Jennings, president, and Anthony Valente, secretary-treasurer of the Woolen and Worsted Workers of America.

The two officers declared:

"Self-appointed leaders have attempted to scrap the constitution of the federation, and these leaders have also attempted to steal the organization from the textile workers and place it in the hands of a few individuals whose only interest and ambition is to commercialize it for their own benefit and power."

HAS 75,000 MEMBERS

The federation is a unit of the Textile Workers of America. The present organization, of which Gorman is president, was absorbed at a meeting in New York two years ago, but the rank and file of workers have declared the action was illegal, charging it was never ratified by the membership.

Union officials here admit a wide unrest over the CIO's New England activities, particularly of the action of the CIO regional board three weeks ago in ousting Joseph Silvia of Providence, veteran organizer and later a CIO leader.

The United Textile Workers has 75,000 members in New England, and approximately the same number in other parts of the country.

Girl's 'Horror Night' Story

Hold 'Don Juan' Kidnap Suspect

MANCHESTER, N. H., Aug. 11—How a gun-toting Don Juan kidnaped her and forced her to submit to his love-making by threatening her with death was told to the Boston Evening American today by pretty 26-year-old Miss Marie Simard.

She said the abductor overpowered her escort, then took her on a wild, moonlight auto ride, finally giving her "carfare back to town" after he had attacked and robbed her.

Held without bail here today on three serious charges was a young East Manchester husband, allegedly identified by Miss Simard as the "Don Juan" gunman.

GIRL'S OWN STORY

Police said he was Wilfred Joseph Dotsie, 21, of Cohas avenue. Arresting officers found him in bed at his home, they declared.

The story the girl told police she repeated today in an interview with a Boston Evening American reporter.

"Eddie Cloutier, a friend of mine, was my escort," she said.

"We were sitting in his auto on a back road between Crystal lake and Pine Island Park.

"All of a sudden, a young fellow came out of the woods and stuck a gun at our faces.

THREAT TO SHOOT

"'You get out of that car,' he told Eddie. 'This is a holdup and you and the girl are going to get shot if you make any fuss.'

"Eddie got out and the fellow with the guns made him lie down beside the road.

"Then the fellow jumped into the auto beside me and drove off.

"He took me on a wild ride around back roads and near Crystal lake he started getting fresh.

"I fought him away twice, but he threatened to kill me and he finally forced me to submit.

"He took all the money in my handbag, but before he made me get out of the car, he gave me some change.

"He said it was for carfare, but where he left me was miles from anywhere."

LESLIE RIPLEY

They Make Moon-Shine For Deb

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 11—That most capricious of all celebrities, the Man in the Moon, won't be able to snub the $50,000 party the Henry Hyde Ripleys are giving Saturday night for their debutante daughter Leslie.

For whether skies are clear or cloudy there'll be the soft glimmer of artificial "moonlight" to enhance the romantic atmosphere of the elaborate seaside ballroom the Ripleys have had built for a single evening's use.

SCIENCE DOES

A small army of electricians was busy today, making final tests of lighting effects in the newly constructed "Italian loggia" in which the Ripley party will be given.

The magic wand of modern science, backed by lavish expenditure of money, will transform the big Ripley estate, Beach Bound, into a bit of Italian Riviera, Saturday night.

From the wide windows of the one-party ballroom on the cliffs of Bentley's Cove, guests will look down on the brightly twinkling lights of yachts riding at anchor in Newport harbor.

NOTABLES ON HAND

Some of the costliest pleasure craft in the world will be there, for this is New York Yacht Club week in Newport, and the sea-going multimillionaires and their families and retinues are all on hand.

And those of the yacht-owners whose social backgrounds are as substantial as their bank balances will be guests Saturday night at Leslie Hyde Ripley's party.

Also present will be Newport's four other debutantes of the season, Hope Bacon Saunders, Fernanda de Morenschildt, Anne Somerville Grosvenor and Louise Hubbard.

They'll all dance to "moonlight," whether the Man in the Moon appears or not.

Seal 'Steals' $1,400,000 Film Thriller

By DAN DE LUCE

Hollywood, Aug. 11 (AP)—Slicker, the seal, gave Hollywood the horse laugh today. And Hollywood deserved it.

The four-year-old bewhiskered playboy of the Pacific is the most surprising movie news of the week: He "stole" a $1,400,000 picture.

The larceny, what's worse, was committed under the very noses of George Raft, Dorothf Lamour and John Barrymore, who had been assured by some of our brighter minds that there was nothing to worry about, because a seal could not act.

Others may get the star billing in "Spawn of the North," the new super-thriller about Alaskan salmon pirates, but it's Slicker's picture. The seal plays the buddy of Raft, the pirate. When Raft is happy, Slicker claps his flippers, whoops like a dog. When his master is shot, Slicker cries in the bathtub and utters a mournful wail. Frequently, he kisses Raft with his damp muzzle. He even kisses Dorothy Lamour.

John Barrymore

His liveliest moment comes at a Ketchikan dance when he dives into a tub of lemonade.

The drama gangs so heavily on the seal that Paramount actually changed the ending and cut his last scene to give the human actors a break.

As it is, those who saw the sneak preview swear he turns in the best animal performance since a puma and a deer fared forth together years ago in "Sequoia."

Slicker was a mere pup, a few months of age, when he was caught in the Pacific and passed into the hands of H. W. Winston of Monterey, Cal. A former vaudeville headliner, Winston added Slicker to his (unemployed) seal act.

For a bite of fish, the pup learned to bounce a ball, climb ladders, do handsprings on his flippers, ride horseback and rescue a drowning man. Last fall, in his adolescence, he came to Hollywood and was hired for his first movie, "Dr. Rhythm."

Slicker, then, was known either as "Curley" or "Butch." His light brown hide turned to shiny patent leather whenever he got it wet and he weighed less than a debutante—100 pounds. He made his debut by nibbling the seat of Andy Divine's trousers when the latter went for a bibulous swim in a zoo.

George Raft

Director Henry Hathaway heared about it and cast Slicker in "Spawn of the North" with Raft, et al. His name was changed and he was provided with two seals as doubles and two more as standins, while Winston received $600 a week for the troupe.

Time proved there were only two limits to Slicker's dramatic art—Hathaway's patience and Paramount's supply of fish.

In Slicker's opinion the important thing in life is not fame. It's fish.

Lovely Co-eds Resent Slurs

Fair co-eds are up in arms over the statement of Leroy Prinz, film dance director, who said there is no such thing as a "pretty co-ed."

Prinz made the declaration in connection with the casting of "Campus Confessions," collegiate film. Prinz said he searched hundreds of college annuals and could find no student that had glamour or sex-appeal.

And now Mr. Prinz finds himself the target of many verbal arrows, and not a few are barbed. An organized attack from the campus darlings comes by way of Harvard Summer school.

Virginia Carey, 21-year-old senior at Pembroke College, honey-haired, brown eyes, and 115 pounds of niceness, disagrees in no mild manner with Prinz.

"I think there are as many good-looking co-eds as there are movie stars. And we don't need the benefit of Hollywood beauty experts."

Then Janet McKenna, a senior at Wheaton College, who is spending her vacation at Cambridge, takes issue with the movie director.

"What a place to look—in the college year-book where the pictures are taken when we're in the midst of exams. Who could look good in a cap and gown? Mr. Prinz didn't look in the right places."

Soviet May Bar Jap Peace Plan

MOSCOW, Aug. 11 (INS)—Fears that the Russo-Japanese armistice on the disputed Siberian-Manchukuoan frontier may prove a short one spread today as Moscow and Toyko prepared to negotiate the border controversy by peaceful means.

Foreign circles here predicted that hitherto unpublished material which Japanese Ambassador Mamo Ru Shigemitsu plans to introduce into negotiations for demarcation of the boundary will be quickly rejected by Soviet Foreign Commissar Maxim Litvinov.

Should this happen, it was anticipated, the heavy guns will roar once more in the vicinity of Changkufeng Hill and the warfare which has been raging there will be resumed.

Although the guns were silenced at noon today under terms of the truce agreed upon by Litvinov and Shigemitsu, the troops of both Russia and Japan remained in their trenches at the front, ready to spring at each other again if diplomatic efforts fail to effect peace.

Kelly, Curley Vote Rallies Set Tonight

By ALFRED D. WHELTON

Along separate battle fronts in Boston the forces of former Governor James M. Curley and Lieutenant-Governor Francis E. Kelly are due tonight to give voters some indication of what to expect between now and September 20.

Principal rivals for the governors chair in opposition to Governor Hurley, the two are scheduled at several places in Boston, whose voters will play an important part in determining the Democratic nominee.

Kelly, first to announce his candidacy in opposition to Governor Hurley's plans for a second term, is due to make his first attack upon Curley since the former governor filed nomination papers in July

SPEAK OVER RADIO

The occasion will be a radio broadcast over stations WBZ and WBZA in which he promises to reveal a "Stop Kelly Plot" in which he charges Curley is involved.

Because each believes that the other's presence in the contest will serve only to split the anti-Hurley vote, tonight's developments are bound to be of more than passing interest.

Curley is due for his first test of Boston strength since the mayoralty contest of last fall in rallies at The Prado in the North End and at the South Boston municipal building.

MEETS WORKERS

Because the Kelly broadcast will precede both meetings, it is expected that Curley will have some comment upon whatever remarks made by the lieutenant-governor over the air.

While Curley is holding forth at his two rallies, Kelly will go directly from the broadcast studio to the old Curley stronghold in Roxbury for a meeting of his workers in Hibernian Hall, Dudley street. Nearly 1500 attended a similar meeting last week.

Hurley Proposes Jobs at Quabbin

Acting to "cut taxes, relieve unemployment, and prevent possible pollution of water," Governor Hurley today acted to speed work on a pressure tunnel and siphon that is part of a huge Metropolitan district water project.

In a special message he asked the Legislature to pass an act that would remove a restriction that prohibits the expenditure of more than $12,000,000 on the Quabbin Reservoir project and pressure tunnel before the end of 1941, and that would provide for increased PWA funds.

"It would result in relieving unemployment and lift from the taxpayers the full burden of the projects already passed by the Legislature to the extent of $8,000,000," the message said.

Insull Wills Last $1000 To Wife

CHICAGO, Aug. 11 (AP)—Samuel Insull's will disclosed today he was worth about $1000 when he died June 16 in Paris.

The man who built a $4,000,000,000 house of powe and once had a fortune estimated at $100,00,000 left the paltry sum that constituted his estate to the widow, Margaret.

Te will was filed in probate court.

The will, dated June 14, 1932, named as executor Insull's son, Samuel, Jr., now with Commonwealth Edison Company.

An application by Insull, Jr., asserted his father had turned over property worth about $2,000,000 for the benefit of creditors whose claims approximated $16,000,000.

Insull died at the age of 78. He was buried in a plain oak casket in London.

He left London at 20 as a $1.25 a week clerk and in America he rose to dominate a power kingdom that collapsed in 1932.

Bay State and Ct. Bus Strike Seen

Possibility of a strike affecting passenger bus lines in Massachusetts and Connecticut was seen today as union officials and employes' representatives remained at odds on issues raised by dismissal of a union driver.

Lawrence Freeman, assistant general manager of the New England Transportation Company, said the union failed to appeal the dismissal.

Earl W. Scott, business agent and vice-president of the Hartford, Ct., local of the union, said a union meeting tomorrow night would demand reinstatement of the dismissed driver and would vote on calling a strike if reinstatement were refused.

Raw Sewage Flood Pours Into Harbor

(This is the fifth article of a series based on a survey made by the Boston Evening American and Boston Sunday Advertiser as a public duty).

Approximately 250,000,000 gallons of raw sewage are discharged every day into the waters of Boston Harbor and Quincy Bay.

This is the reason for pollution of bathing beaches in South Boston, Dorchester and Quincy, pollution that is dangerous for a bather each time he goes into the water.

The figure was given to the Boston Evening American and Boston Sunday Advertiser by William A. Bradford, former mayor of Quincy and now chairman of the Quincy Chamber of Commerce special committee which is seeking to eliminate this pollution.

MANY BACTERIA

In their survey, conducted with the cooperation of Vice-President Burton G. Philbrick of the firm of Skinner & Sherman, internationally known Boston and New York chemists, these newspapers learned that beaches from South Boston to Quincy show bacteria counts from 4600 to 8200 units per 100 cubic centimeters of water tested.

"Is it any wonder that at the beaches from South Boston, to Quincy, the water is unfit to bathe in ?" asked Bradford.

"How long are we going to continue to use Boston Harbor, Quincy Bay, and adjacent waters as a mixing bowl and a cesspool for the sewage of Greater Boston and cities and towns adjacent, now served by the North and South Metropolitan Sewers?

"Nature has provided us with one of her most beautiful natural marine settings, which is being rapidly polluted by the daily discharge of hundreds of millions of gallons of raw sewage daily.

FLOW INCREASES

"Two hundred and fifty million gallons of raw sewage is being discharged daily into Boston Harbor, Quincy Bay, and adjacent waters. One third of this amount, 85,000,000 gallons, goes directly into Quincy Bay every day from the Boston main drainage system at Moon Island.

"The average daily discharge, from these three major outlets continues to increase from year to year.

"Eventually, as additions are made to the systems, the volume will become tremendous and out of proportion to the volume of sea water available.

"It was only a short time ago that the Neponset Valley system, which includes the towns of Canton, Norwood, Stoughton and Walpole were added to the south metropolitan system, adding an additional daily volume of several million gallons of sewage daily.

"Recently the towns of Weymouth and Braintree began discharging their sewage into the same system.

"If the people of Massachusetts fully realized the tremendous danger to health that this sewage presents, it would not take them long to demand the construction of treatment plants at Deer Island, Nut Island and Moon Island."

Dr. Richard M. Ash, health commissioner of Quincy, who termed the water at Wollaston beach "filthy" and declared he would not think of bathing there, is anxiously awaiting analysis of five samples of water taken by the State Board of Health last Tuesday at his request.

He has also asked Arthur D. Weston, chief sanitary engineer of the State Board of Health, to make a sanitary survey of the area.

(In tomorrow's Boston Evening American will be published another in this series of articles.)

JAMES LEONARD
Nearly Lost Arm

Polluted Water Nearly Costs Athlete Arm

As a result of infection from the polluted water in Quincy Bay, James Leonard, 15, of 201 Fayette street, Wollaston, nearly lost his arm, the Boston Evening American learned today.

While picking up driftwood in Black's Creek during a camping trip the lad was infected by streptococcus germs. The infection spread from a finger to the upper wrist before Dr. J. Frank Belin of Whitney road, Quincy, was called in.

The physician ordered young Leonard, who is a pitcher on North Junior High School baseball team and a tackle on the football team, to a local hospital. By the time he reached the hospital the infection had reached the elbow.

JUST IN TIME

"Dr. Belin told me that my son would have lost his arm as a result of the infection had we delayed three more hours in calling him," said Mrs. Mary Leonard, the mother.

"My son was in the hospital 12 days and his illness cost us $125. I think the city of Quincy should reimburse me but I have been informed that nothing will be done about it. My son lost 17 pounds in weight from his sickness which he has not regained.

NEVER AGAIN

"I don't have to tell my son not to go wading in that creek again.

"It's to bad that the authorities don't do something to close up that dirty water. It certainly isn't fit to bathe in, as my son's experience proves."

5 Named To Probe Pollution

proves that drastic action should be taken without further dilly-dallying."

Rep. Whiton of Quincy, named to the commission by Speaker Cahill, is a former mayor of that city and during his term of office, and since, was deeply interested in plans to keep Quincy harbor beaches free from pollution.

Both the American and Sunday Advertiser support the recommendation of health authorities that sewage treatment plants should be constructed at Deer Island, Nut Island at Squantum, and Moon Island in Quincy bay. These recommendations will be submitted to the recess commission.

The north metropolitan sewage system empties into the ocean at Deer Island, the south metropolitan system at Nut Island and the Boston sewage system at Deer Island.

Other members of the special commission, under the resolve, include the state commissioner of public health; Eugene Hultman, chairman of the Metropolitan District Commission; Joseph F. Dever, director of the sewerage division of the Metropolitan District Commission; Arthur D. Weston, director of the division of the sanitary engineering of the State Department of Health; and Robert P. Shea, division engineer of the sewer division of the public works department of the City of Boston.

Doug Gets Co-Pilot Job

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11 (AP)—Douglas Corrigan said today he planned to return immediately to New York to reassemble his $900 Atlantic-spanning airplane and then to prepare for a regular job.

Feted at a breakfast by Oswald Ryan, member of the Civil Aeronautics Authority, Corrigan told a group of government officials he intended soon to accept a co-pilot's job with American airlines.

"Co-pilot?" an official asked. "I thought you'd be a bigger shot than that."

"No," smiled the unassuming flier, "I guess it'll be a long time before I'm a big shot."

Corrigan conferred again with Denis Mulligan, director of the Civil Aeronautics Authority, relative to securing an early flying permit for his plane.

Mulligan had suspended Corrigan's lying license for disregarding regulations of the Federal Air Commerce Bureau and taking off without a permit.

In their first interview the dialogue ran like this:

MULLIGAN: "What about explaining your conduct?"

CORRIGAN: "There's nothing mue hto explain except that I flew on the wrong end of the nedle of the compass and got to Ireland instead of California."

MULLIGAN: "Are you certain?"

CORRIGAN: "Yes, and I'm awfully ashamed. I certainly expected some worse punishment than suspension of my license. I thought you'd give it to me when I got back here."

MULLIGAN: "Douglas Corrigan, your flight has had a tremendous effect on the world."

CORRIGAN: "Well, it wouldn't do for every kid inAmerica to jump in any old crate and go flying off."

The two men met after Corrigan had been given a rousing reception in the capital.

Corrigan was as nervous as a schoolboy in a principal's office when he was introduced to Mulligan.

When the interview was over, Mulligan was asked by reporters if all was forgiven.

"Well," he smiled, "you can't resist Niagara."

Chadwick Tells Why He Quit Health Post

Dr. Henry D. Chadwick resigned as state health commissioner because Governor Hurley admitted he had another man in mind for the position, Dr. Chadwick said today.

"I resigned because I was elected medical director of the Middlesex County Tuberculosis Sanitarium," said Dr. Chadwick in an interview. "And inasmuch as the Governor wants someone else in the position I now hold, it seemed like the best thing to do.

"I'll be back in work that is congenial to me."

The governor made the announcement that he would submit for the third time the name of Dr. Paul L. Jakmauth for commissioner. Dr. Jakmauth was rejected by the executive council last April.

Announcement was made today of the governor's intention to resubmit Dr. Jakmauth's name immediately.

What success the governor would now have was problematical.

Democrats declared the Republican-controlled Council would see differently now that Dr. Chadwick, one of the nation's outstanding health authorities, had chosen another post.

Republicans, however, insisted that a majority of the Council still felt that Dr. Jakmauth was not sufficiently experienced in public health matters to hold the post. This has been the contention of the Massachusetts Medical Society and other medical leaders.

On the other hand, 90 members of the Legislature have signed a petition urging appointment of Dr. Jakmauth.

Motorist Skids Into Undertaker's

Skidding on wet car tracks, an automobile swung around twice in Bowdoin street, Dorchester, hit an electric light pole then crashed into the plate glass window of an undertaking parlor today.

Dis Is De Reeson She Lost Her Teecher Job

TRENTON, N. J., Aug. 11 (INS)—Dismissal of Miss Bessie Melick, teacher for nine years at Clinton, N. J., because she mispronounced words in conducting her classes had been upheld today by Charles H. Elliott, state commissioner of education.

Elliott's decision came after review of the 927 pages of testimony given by 75 witnesses which preceded Miss Melick's dismissal. Laura Jean Schantz, one of Miss Melick's pupils and a witness against her, said that among the words mispronounced by Miss Melick were:

Pupils—Poo'plis.
Celluloid—Cell'oid.
Learned—Learnt.
Gentle—Gen'dl.
Children—Chill'ens.
Agriculture—Ag'reculty.

Laura Jean also said Miss Melick used the expressions "those there" and "these here."

Meigs, Koehler Named Chicago Publishers

Special to Boston Evening American

CHICAGO Aug 11 Joseph V Connolly general manager of the Hearst newspapers, announced today the appointment of Major C Meigs as publisher of the Chicago American and Harry A Koehler as publisher of the Herald and Examiner. Mr Meigs and Mr Koehler succeed Emmanuel Levi who resigned as publisher of both papers.

Widely known in business and civic circles in Chicago and the middle west Mr Meigs has been associated with the Hearst organization since 1914.

In 1915 he became a member of the press department of Lord & Thomas and remained there until 1918 when he was named advertising director of the Chicago Evening American where he remained until 1926 when he was appointed publisher of the Herald and Examiner.

In 1929 Mr Meigs went to the American Weekly as vice president and in 1934 returned to the Evening American as publisher. Mr Meigs remained with the Evening American until March 1936 when he became western manager for Hearst magazines which position he now retains.

A pioneer in aviation Mr Meigs holds a transport pilot's license and operates his own plane utilizing it for business trips. He is chairman of the Chicago Aero Commission and a member of the Illinois Aeronautics Commission.

Mr Koehler enters the publishing field after a long career as an advertising executive.

Night Club Drinks Trip Harvard Boy

Malvern Chace, 26, of Hudson, N. Y., Colgate graduate and Harvard summer school student, bought two Tom Collins early today in a Revere night club and awoke later in the local police station with a black eye.

That was his defense today in Chelsea district court when arraigned on a charge of drunkenness and drunken driving, before Judge Paul J. MacDonald.

He was not able to inform the court how he received the black eye.

Judge MacDonald allowed Chace to leave court in lieu of $1.50 advising him to return on Saturday for final disposition of the charges against him.

Incidentally, Revere police estimated they would probe the sale of the drinks to Chace at 2 a.m., an hour after the night club was supposed to have been closed.

For two reasons the court deferred disposition of the case. One was because Chace takes his final Harvard exams on Saturday and the other to give him an opportunity to find his night-club associate!

Chace said that accompanied by a fellow student at Harvard, he entered the Broadway night spot at 2 a. m., ordered and drank the two gin cocktails and was knocked out" so completely by them that he didn't remember being attacked.

Leonardi Quits Welfare Post

Dr. Frank M. Leonardi of the North End, for four years a member of the Boston board of overseers of public welfare, offered his resignation to Mayor Tobin today.

The resignation, it was learned, had been sought by the mayor because Dr. Leonardi's present political activity as a candidate for the House of Representatives from Ward 3 a seat he held in 1935 and 1936.

Hint Socialite Dupe of Bogus Money Ring

Federal agents today probed the possibility that Mrs. Ida R. Mitchell, 57, of Hawthorne street, Braintree, may have been victimized by counterfeiters, who gambled upon her steadily-failing eyesight.

The woman, Mayflower descendant and member of one of the South Shore's oldest families, was scheduled for hearing in federal court today on a charge she attempted to pass a $10 bill which has been reduced to $160.

Authorities learned she is becoming blind and is studying the Braille system. They believe someone may have taken advantage of her affliction in seeking to have her pass the bills.

Mrs. Mitchell, who is the mother of three children, one a Harvard student and another a Radcliffe graduate, was arrested after allegedly tendering a raised $10 bill in Quincy. An extra cipher had been pasted on the bill and the printed numeral "Ten" crossed out in ink.

She told officers she had no idea where the money had come from unless from the bank where she has transactions.

A second bill similarly raised to $100 was found several weeks ago in the receipts of the Quincy tax collector.

Do you tie your Tie neatly?

...are you the Man who Cares?

TYING your tie neatly may not make you "head man" in your field. But, somehow, the chap who strives to have things right usually gets along.

For generations, the Carstairs family have subscribed to that principle. They have preferred to serve a small trade well rather than a large one indifferently.

Notably excellent today is Carstairs Blended Whiskey: LIGHT IN BODY; RICH IN TASTE. A blend of several superlative whiskies, smoothly balanced to give you delightful flavor with delicate bouquet. Carstairs is your whiskey, if you are "the Man who Cares".

G-Men Secrets In Carroll Case

against a former employer of Carroll today was by Attorney General Franz Burkett, called as a witness by the Carroll defense.

Even a greater jam than yesterday, the previous high point in attendance, occurred at the courthouse when court opened today, some of those anxious to obtain seats at the court drama having arrived at the courthouse as early as 6:30.

Attorney General Burkett testified that the agent of the Department of Justice questioned Dwyer at State Prison with regard to a $50,000 extortion plot against George Morton, manager of the South Paris Manufacturing Company.

Dwyer, it was testified, made a statement to Gerald Pelletier in the presence of the attorney general. It was said to be [illegible] and said in part:

"Some time during the first part of December of 1936, while I was keeping company with Miss Barbara Carroll, I was at her house talking with the family. We were discussing the new typewriter which Miss Ruth Charles had received.

CARROLL'S REQUEST

"Later in the evening, as I was leaving, Mr. Carroll spoke to me on the front porch, stating that he wished to have some letters typed. At the time, he did not tell me the nature of the letters, but told me not to mention it to anyone.

"He asked me to borrow the typewriter of Miss Charles. She loaned me the typewriter.

"The next evening I told Carroll I had the typewriter. Mr. Carroll told me at the time that Mr. George Morton of South Paris owed him some back money and that he wanted to write him about it.

"Mr. Carroll turned over to me two letters and told me to type them up.

THREATS IN LETTERS

"As I remember the substance of the two letters, they appeared to be from some organization, requesting Mr. Morton to pay over an entrance fee of a large amount of money.

"I recall that the letters stated that if he did not pay over the money, there were threats against his family.

"The letters also stated that other factories in Massachusetts had been damaged upon the refusal of the organization's demands.

"I also recall that the letters stated that if Mr. Morton was willing to pay the money, he was to hang a signal up outside his office.

"I decided not to write the letters and told Mr. Carroll I was not going to write them and he told me I had been picked to write them.

"I asked why, and he said it was just to scare Mr. Morton. I told him I didn't think it was a very good way to scare him.

"We had some talk and he got hot and told me the organization in back of him would make things hot for me. He threatened my life.

"I got scared because I thought maybe there was such an organization and he told me that if I didn't type them, I would get the same thing they promised Mr. Morton.

"I typed the letters and Mr. Carroll came up and looked at the letters and told me they were O. K."

Morton, called to the stand, testified that he received the letters, one demanding $50,000, the other, "on account of the depression," reducing this demand to $25,000.

"I was to put a white flag or cloth in the window next the office," said Morton.

NEAR CARROLL HOME

The manufacturer agreed that his windows are plainly visible from the Carroll home a quarter-mile distant.

Testifying yesterday in his own defense, Carroll asserted that Paul Dwyer had held a grudge against him since 1936, when the former deputy sheriff learned Paul had tried to extort money from a South Paris manufacturer.

Bloody footprints asserted to have been found in the Dwyer home, where Dr. James G. Littlefield was slain on the night of last October 13, were shown in photographs today to the jury.

They were made by Willie E. Deshaies, deputy sheriff in charge of the Bureau of Identification of Androscoggin County, called as today's first witness.

As the defense lined up other witnesses to buttress Carroll's claimed alibi for the Littlefield slaying night, the prosecution continued to hammer away today at the defendant's "lost hour."

It is the hour between 8 and 9 p. m. on October 13, 1937.

The state contends — and Dwyer, schoolboy sweetheart of Carroll's pretty 17-year-old daughter, Barbara, has testified to it — that it was at this time the ex-peace officer in a sudden flare of berserk rage bludgeoned and garrotted to death the kindly old physician in the blood-drenched bathroom of the Dwyer home on Paris Hill.

This "lost hour" has become the focal point of the state's activity, the big question in the murder trial.

It was during this hour, according to Carroll's own testimony, that he went alone to the sheriff's office, got a paper to serve on a man named Gerald Piper, and went back to Norway to serve it.

So far Piper has not been produced as a witness to deny or confirm that the paper was actually served.

The sheriff's office here denied this morning that any subpoena had issued for Piper as a witness in the trial.

Today's Maine Testimony

SOUTH PARIS, Me., Aug. 11—Testimony today in the trial of Frances M. Carroll for the murder of Dr. James G. Littlefield offered many surprises.

Chief of Defense Counsel Chapman did the direct questioning and Special Prosecutor Ingalls the cross-examining.

The first witness called today in the basement, that looked as who Willie F. Deshaies, deputy though it had been used for ashes sheriff in charge of the identification bureau of Androscoggin and also the little piles of ashes in County.

Deshaies testified he went to the back yard where the doctor's Scott Farm, Oxford, Me., and body was loaded into the death took photographs in the Dwyer car.

home where the murder of Dr. Lit- The photographs were presented tlefield occurred. and identified by Deshaies.

He took photographs in the back The first was that of a bloody bathroom, showing the relative positions of the footprints.

Next was a photograph of the Other photographs also enlargements followed in rapid succession.

Also introduced was the latent impression taken of the bloody footprint.

PRINTS OF TWO SIZES

■—Did you find more than one size of bloody footprint? A—Well, one is approximately five inches long at its longest point. The other is four inches long at the longest.

In cross-examination Special Prosecutor Ingalls brought out the fact that the house had been entered by a number of persons from the sheriff's office before Deshaies was called to take the photographs.

The next witness was Attorney General Frank Burke.

Q—Did you one day go to the state prison and talk to Mr Dwyer? A—June 2nd of this year.

Q—You had an agent of the U. S. Department of Justice with you? A—Yes, a Mr. Pelletier. He came to my office the day before and asked me to go down with him. He told me he had talked to Dwyer before, but that Dwyer refused to talk any more unless I came with him.

SECRET U. S. EVIDENCE

Q—What was said? Will you tell us? A—Mr. Pelletier told him he wanted to ask him about a case he had been investigating since December, 1936. I want to say that Mr. Pelletier charged me not to say anything about the case. I will, of course, tell the court if the court wishes. He told Pelletier a long story about an extortion plot which was reduced to writing by Pelletier. I received a copy of this statement from the Department of Justice a week ago. I don't know whether I should make its contents known but if the court wishes me to, of course, I will. Follow the court's instructions. Mr Pelletier is a confidential agent of the Department of Justice and I was just there because Dwyer said he wouldn't talk to him unless I was there.

Q—Have you a copy of that statement with you? A—Yes, sir.

WHAT DWYER TOLD G-MAN

A photostatic copy of the statement that Pelletier obtained from Dwyer was introduced in evidence. It reads in part:

"Sometime during the first part of December, 1936, while I was keeping company with Miss Barbara Carroll I was at her home discussing a new typewriter. There were present Francis Carroll, Ruby Carroll, and others. Later in the evening Mr. Carroll spoke to me saying he wished to have some private letters typed, he told me not mention it to anyone. He told me to borrow the new typewriter which belonged to a Miss Charles.

"I borrowed the typewriter and the next evening contacted Mr. Carroll. He told me Mr. George Morton owed him some money and that he wanted to write him about it. He gave me two letters.

"One letter was in Mr. Carroll's handwriting, the other was in somebody else's. One was headed New York, the other Lewiston, Me. The letters appeared to be from some organization requesting Mr Morton to pay over a large sum of money in the form of an 'entrance fee.'

SAYS CARROLL THREATENED

"I remember the letters stated that if money was not paid there were threats against his family. If he was willing to pay he was to hang a signal out of the window of his home. I decided not to write the letters and told Mr Carroll I was not going to write them and he told me I had been 'picked' to write them.

"I asked why and he said it was just to scare Mr. Morton. I told him I didn't think it was a very good way to scare him. We had some talk and he got hot and he told me the organization 'in back of him' would make things hot for me.

"He threatened my life. I got scared because I thought maybe there was such an organization and he told me that if I didn't type them I would get the same thing they promised Mr. Morton.

"I typed the letters and Mr Carroll came up and looked at the letters and told me they were O.K."

Young Dwyer stated that at Carroll's suggestion he made an envelope out of brown wrapping paper for one of the letters. A couple of days later, he stated, he saw Carroll at his home and Carroll told him the letters had not been mailed and not to worry any more. The statement reveals, however, that the Department of Justice man showed young Dwyer the letters.

$50,000, $25,000 NAMED

■ (Chapman to Burke)—Do you recall any statement by Dwyer that day not covered by his statement? A—He offered to write the statement out— Pelletier did. I went out. When it was done I came back and Dwyer signed it and I took his oath.

Q—Do you recall the sum of money mentioned in the letters? A—Yes, $50,000 in the first one and $25,000 in the second.

Clarice Pring was the next witness called to the stand.

She is the daughter of Maurice Perry at whose home the Carrolls played cards the night of October 16th. She corroborated Carroll's and Mrs Carroll's and her own previous testimony concerning Carroll being at her home.

Next defense witness was William F. Mahan, first assistant prosecutor of Bergen County, New Jersey.

He was questioned concerning his conversation in New Jersey with the statement made there by Dwyer.

He said of the statement in the envelope and a copy from taken down by Prosecutor John Breslin, Jr. and identified a copy taken from Dwyer by Prosecutor

Night Club Offer for Barbara

Barbara Carroll today was offered a Boston night club engagement—at her own price.

The South Paris, Me., schoolgirl who has held newspaper headlines for weeks, was offered an engagement in the following telegram from Barnett Wolansky:

"Will you please quote price you would accept for an indefinite engagement at the Cocoanut Grove?"

John Breslin, Jr. and identified a copy of this statement.

TELLS OF DWYER'S FEAR

■—Do you recall any conversation on the part of Paul Dwyer other than appears in that statement? A—That is the formal statement. There was conversation between Dwyer and various persons between the making of the statement and being taken to Maine.

Q—Do you recall his appearance? A—He appeared apprehensive concerning Barbara Carroll and slightly apprehensive concerning Francis Carroll. He wanted to keep Barbara's name out of publicity. He inquired whether Francis Carroll was among those coming down for him in the plane and, when asked why, said in substance that he was afraid Francis Carroll would throw him out of the plane.

The next witness called to the stand was George R. Morton. He said he had been connected with the Paris Manufacturing Company 41 years last month.

Q—Do you recall in 1936 receiving an extortion note? A—Yes, sir, I didn't keep the letter. They wanted $50,000. I can remember that. Finally they said on account of the depression and poor business they would take $25,000. They threatened death and said I would be killed if I didn't pay it. I was to put a white flag or cloth in the window near the office. I received it December 6 or 7.

Q—Did you discuss the matter with Mrs. Morton? A—I didn't at that time.

Q—Do you know Francis Carroll? A—Yes, sir; he worked for us for 15 years, I guess.

Q—How near to his residence is your residence, Mr. Morton? A—Less than a quarter of a mile.

Q—Do you know the general reputation for peace and quiet of Francis M. Carroll in the community in which he resides? A—I do.

CARROLL'S REPUTE GOOD

Q—Had you heard it discussed at any time by anybody? A—I think so.

Q—What was the reputation of Francis M. Carroll prior to October 13th? (Objection).

Q—What was that reputation, Mr Morton? (Objection withdrawn). A—He had a good reputation.

Prosecutor Ingalls took Morton in cross-examination. He brought out the fact from Morton that the factory windows in which the signal to the extortionists was to be hung out were clearly visible from the Carroll home.

The next witness was Attorney Adrian Cote, who testified that he is also an investigator and finger print expert.

He is a lecturer on criminology at Boston University.

He stated he was employed by F. Walker Abbott, Dwyer's lawyer at his trial, as an investigator and fingerprint expert.

NO CARROLL PRINTS

He went to the Dwyer home and "took the fingerprints that were available there," he stated.

Q—As a result of your investigation were you able to find any fingerprints of Mr. Carroll there at the house at all? A—No, I was not.

Cote testified he went to the house specifically in search of Carroll's fingerprints if they were to be found. This he stated was in November.

Q—Did Mr. Abbott tell you he was going to defend Dwyer by laying the blame on Mr. Carroll? A—Not exactly. He told me something of the story and asked me how to go about getting Mr. Carroll's fingerprints if Mr. Carroll had been anywhere about the house.

Cote revealed that they obtained Carroll's fingerprints for purpose of comparison by having a writ served on him and then taking his fingerprints off the paper.

'PLANTED' FINGERPRINT

Argument between Ingalls and Chapman developed over the purpose of this testimony. Chapman pointed out that Abbott testified that Dwyer first named Carroll to him then repudiated this after alleged threats by Carroll against him and his mother.

In cross-examination Ingalls asked:

Q—Didn't you plant a fingerprint in the back room of the Dwyer house yourself? A—No, sir.

Q—Didn't you know of its being planted? A—Yes, sir.

In redirect examination Cote explained:

"It was placed there at my direction for experimental purposes to ascertain the comparative freshness."

Judge Fisher asked the witness:

"Were you an attorney?"

"No, Abbott was the attorney," said the witness.

"You understand the question—the court is asking you whether you are an attorney," Ingalls interjected.

"Yes, I am," Cote responded.

SERVED DWYER FOOD

The next witness was Earl Marden.

He testified he is a waiter in the Spanish Villa restaurant in Concord, N. H. He told of waiting on Paul Dwyer and Mrs. Littlefield around 3:30 or 4 o'clock on the morning of October 14th.

Q—What did Dwyer say to you? A—He asked of me at the time he was paying his check, what was the best hotel in Concord. He ordered a sandwich and cup of coffee and a cup of coffee for Mrs. Littlefield. I also brought her an order of doughnuts.

Q—Will you tell us whether Dwyer ate his sandwich and drank his coffee? A—Yes, he did. Later I found Mrs. Littlefield had not touched the doughnuts nor drunk her coffee.

Next called was a Concord, N. H. policeman Eugene Desmond.

He told of seeing Dwyer in the Spanish Villa.

Q—Did you have any conversation with him? A—He asked me if I could direct him to the leading hotel in the city. I had come in and was sitting on a stool at the counter. It was between 3:30 and 4 o'clock in the morning. I saw him later come out with a middle-aged lady he had been sitting with in the booth. He helped her into the car, got in himself, backed out and drove away.

Q—Did you observe his appearance? A—It seemed perfectly natural.

There was no cross examination.

The next witness was Elliott Hunt of South Paris.

He works in a restaurant and testified to waiting on Paul Dwyer on the night of October 13 between 7 and 8 o'clock and serving him a bottle of beer and a hamburg sandwich.

There was no cross-examination.

Next witness was County Attorney Albert Knudson of Cumberland County.

He told of being with the party that met Dwyer at the Portland airport upon his return from New Jersey.

En route back to South Paris they stopped at New Gloucester.

"The car was driven into a point and stopped and we got out," he testified.

Q—At what time did Dwyer give a written statement? A—I wrote a brief statement. I did not reduce all that was said to writing. I don't believe in long conferences anyway.

DWYER'S CONFESSION

The spot in Gloucester is the "Healer Piece" which the jury was taken to view earlier in the week.

The statement reads, in part:

RECESS CHAT—Francis Carroll and his daughter, Barbara, pictured in animated conversation during a recess in the courtroom at South Paris, Me., where Carroll is being tried as Dr. James G. Littlefield's slayer.

"At this spot in New Gloucester, Maine, I killed Mrs. Lydia Littlefield because I suspected she suspected I killed her husband, Dr. James G. Littlefield. In fact, she said to me, 'You killed him and I am going up the road to get help.' Then I strangled her and tied a belt around her throat."

DIDN'T NAME CARROLL

Q—Did he say what he did after that? A—He said he put her in the back of the car and covered her over with some things and drove around aimlessly, not knowing where he was going, ending up in North Arlington, where he was arrested.

Q—Was there anything unusual about his appearance? A—I thought, under the circumstances, his appearance was most unusual. I was very much surprised that after all he had been through his appearance was very ordinary except that he seemed tired.

Q—Did he express any fear of Francis M. Carroll? A—I don't remember his ever having mentioned Francis M. Carroll's name. He may have, but I didn't hear him at all.

Under cross-examination, Knudson explained that his interest was in establishing whether the murder of Mrs Littlefield occurred in Cumberland County or elsewhere.

N. E. Economic Survey Rests With Roosevelt

WASHINGTON, Aug 11 (AP)—The decision whether an economic survey of New England similar to one of the south will be made by the National Emergency Council rests with President Roosevelt.

Lowell Mellett, executive director of the council, said he would confer with the President soon after his arrival here about the possibility of studying other sections of the country.

He indicated New England whose manufacturers have protested that southern wage levels have attracted their industries, might be the next section considered.

New England governors have expressed their opposition to reducing the freight differentials which favor their states. The governors of Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont and Massachusetts have opposed any possible tariff concessions on their states' products in the reciprocal trade agreements program.

Several governmental officials have expressed belief, however, of the South's economic problems might arouse opposition from New England. They predicted that any aid given the south would ultimately benefit New England but indicated that some New England interests would oppose such efforts as "harmful" to the northeast.

Claims 11,000 Clerics Slain

NEW YORK, Aug 11 (AP)—The slaying of at least 11,000 clerics was charged against Spanish government forces today by the Rt Rev Karl Joseph Alter, Bishop of Toledo, Ohio.

Bishop Alter who returned from the Eucharistic Congress at Budapest aboard the Italian liner Saturnia, said he had spent four weeks behind the lines of General Franco studying conditions. In the province of Hesca, he said, he found only four churches left out of 400 that stood before the civil war began.

Bishop Alter said that while in Spain he met Brig Gen Henry Bailey, U. S. Army, retired, who reviewed the Franco troops and reported the' out of 600,000 only 40,000 were foreigners. In the Guadalajara, he said he had remarked unofficially that 25,000 foreigners including Americans, were fighting on the government side.

3 Prisoners Get 'Hot Foot'

Spontaneous combustion was blamed today for the fire which forced the rescue of three prisoners at the Joy street police station.

WPA workers who had been repairing the building were said to have left oil-soaked rags in an attic closet causing spontaneous combustion. The damage was $500.

The three prisoners had been booked on charges of intoxication and one of them had to be carried bodily through the fire lines.

Irving Berlin In Hub for Premiere

BY GEORGE HOLLAND

"Over There," a song he didn't write, is the song destined to outlive this century, and many more, if you are ready to accept the judgement of Irving Berlin composer.

Berlin's jolting musical picture "Alexander's Ragtime Band," a box-office stimulant comparable in power to "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs" in the opinion of pre-viewers, opened at the Metropolitan today for a two-weeks' engagement.

And how those theater box-office, here and everywhere, need a potent lift at this time! Accordingly, or consequently, Mr Berlin finds himself the lion of the hour, a sort of super-Shirley Temple.

Accordingly also, Composer Berlin found himself in Boston for a few hours on the eve of the premiere of "Alexander's Ragtime Band," entirely at the mercy of the press. He withstood it well.

Once, about 15 years ago, your correspondent was the famous song-writer's buffer against newspaper-folk. And there is a saying that no man is a hero to his valet or his press-agent.

Boy and man, your reporter has seen Irving Berlin under a variety of fusillades. He doesn't miss by much, in this estimation, of qualifying as a hero in the world of entertainment.

It is too bad that the motion picture public couldn't get to know the creator of "Alexander's Ragtime Band." Reporters meeting him for the first time yesterday muttered something about Berlin being "modest."

That tells it, plus the word courageous.

"Over There" is the song of the century, in Berlin's opinion and it was written by George M. Cohan. But maybe it evens up. Ask George M. Cohan who is the great song-writer of this era and he will answer you, as insistently he has answered me: "Irving Berlin."

25 Safe After Lake Erie Gale

CLEVELAND, Aug. 11 (AP)—Twenty five persons in six boats missing in stormy waters of Lake Erie were rescued or made their way to safety today.

The last to be found safe were six members of a Marshfield, O, fishing party, including three instructors of the United Lutheran Church.

'Racket Busters' Opens Here

"Racket Busters," Cosmopolitan's sensational film presentation of a nation's revolt against organized crime featuring Humphrey Bogart, George Brent, Gloria Dickson and Walter Abel, opens a week's engagement today at the Paramount and Fenway theaters.

The co-feature "Mr Chump," revealing the romance in the life of a slap-happy swing musician, features Jeannie Davis Lola Lane and Penny Singleton.

Lifted right out of the headlines, "Racket Busters" pictures society's desperate battle to rid American business centers of vicious gangsterism rule.

Taken from actual New York city police court records, it tell the shocking story of a master racketeer, Humphrey Bogart, who attempts to "take over" the city's food supply system and the efforts of a special prosecutor, Walter Abel and a courageous truckman George Brent, to halt the money-mad racketeers.

The entire city becomes a battlefield and amid a "battle to death," the entire inside operations of the clever leaders of organized crime are exposed.

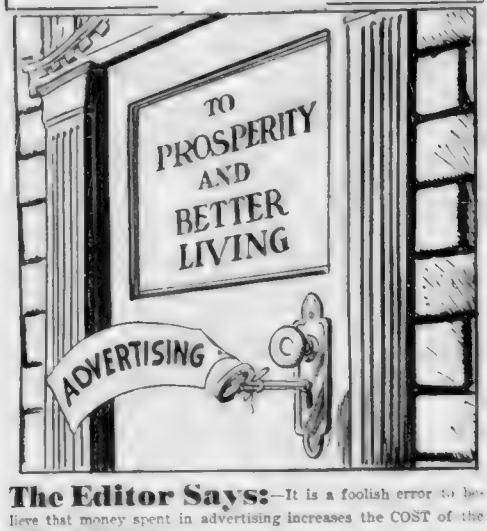
The Recovery Key



The Editor Says:—It is a foolish error to believe that money spent in advertising increases the COST of the products of industry.

There is one automobile in use in the United States today for every four or five persons.

How many automobiles would there be if millions of dollars had not been SPENT IN ADVERTISING?

How many of the millions of people now employed in the production and distribution of automobiles would HAVE JOBS?

AN ECONOMIC TRUTH is the indisputable fact that the cost of goods or services in any industry or profession is REDUCED BY ADVERTISING.

There is no element of magic or mystery about it, and certainly NO ELEMENT OF CONTRADICTION.

It is the simplest economics that any product can be made or any service rendered cheaper BY VOLUME.

Advertising is the one indispensable factor in PRODUCTION BY VOLUME.

It multiplies both the uses and the USERS of a product, and in that exact proportion reduces the UNIT COST of production.

Let any manufacturer produce thousands instead of hundreds, millions instead of thousands, of his automobiles or other products, and he will halve and HALVE AGAIN their retail cost.

IT HAS HAPPENED in the automotive industry. It has happened WITHIN THE LAST TEN YEARS in the radio industry.

It has happened in every American industry whose products are in common use in the United States.

Nobody disputes these facts, which are of common knowledge.

Why should anybody doubt or dispute the essential part ADVERTISING HAS PLAYED in recommending the beneficial products of industry and labor to USE BY THE PEOPLE?

WHO WOULD BUY a product he KNOWS NOTHING ABOUT?

How is he to know of its uses, or quality, or its VERY EXISTENCE if these facts are not brought to his attention by SOME FORM OF ADVERTISING?

Advertising is nothing more and nothing less than dissemination of INFORMATION AND KNOWLEDGE which enables the people to avail themselves of the means of CHEAPER AND BETTER LIVING.

"RACKET BUSTERS," a realistic story and motion picture of a great metropolis helpless in the grip of ruthless outlaws, appeals to all interested in stamping out crime.

Obviously, "RACKET BUSTERS," as it is told daily in the Boston Evening American and is shown on the screens of the Paramount and Fenway Theaters, concerns lawlessness in New York City. But the same deplorable situation could occur and very often DOES OCCUR in thousands of other cities throughout the forty-eight States.

Consequently this story and picture, endorsed by the Commercial Crime Commission, will surely arouse public opinion to the WIDESPREAD menace of the underworld and its vicious practices.

Certainly every American who deplores crime and wants to see it driven from our country should read and see "RACKET BUSTERS." It is convincing, entertaining and intensely thrilling.

The Political Parade

By GEORGE ROTHWELL BROWN
WASHINGTON, Aug. 11

IF President Roosevelt, at this juncture, should decide to summon Congress in extra session, the White House messengers would need some of those famous seven-league boots, to round up the Senators alone, to say nothing of our lesser statesmen.

So widely scattered are the top-flight members of the "World's Most Exclusive Club," as we used to call it, that it's hard indeed to realize that a red-hot political campaign is on in full blast.

This writer recently had occasion to get in touch with all the Senators, and it is astonishing where some of them were finally run to earth.

Yes, sir, our noble Senators have a wanderlust, and their itching feet have carried them to the celebrated four-corners. It is probably the first time a mid-Summer survey of the Senate was ever attempted, and so, for the first time, we can get a glimpse of our great seamen, with their togas off and their fishing clothes on.

A LOT of Senators have listened to the siren call from across deep waters.

Senator Joe Guffey, the well-known Pennsylvania subpoena dodger, has gone to Geneva to attend the all I sessions of the Interparliamentary Union, and Senator Henrik Shipstead, the Minnesota Progressive, is sailing tomorrow for the same destination and with the same purpose.

Senator Claude Pepper, of Florida, not long since successfully "blessed" by Jimmy Roosevelt, is honeymooning in Europe with his bride.

Senators James H. Hughes, of Delaware, and Senators Theodore F. Greene, of Rhode Island, have gone to South America, and Senator William H. King, of Utah, is in Honolulu.

Senator Bob Reynolds, of North Carolina, most ingenious and foxy of all our peripatetic statesmen, out-smarted the weather man by going to Alaska. Bob invariably travels by battered-up Ford of ancient vintage, from which he once conducted a campaign for the Senate — unsuccessfully — by sending his constituents picture post cards all the way from Japan, China, India and South Africa. He cashed in two years later, and has been in the Senate ever since.

"CACTUS JACK" GARNER is fishing at Uvalde, and Senator Tom Connally is hunting deep sea denizens off Galveston. Senator Dave Walsh has been fishing off the coast of Maine, keeping in touch with the Senate campaign committee by telephone from a little fishing village. Senator Morris Sheppard of Texas, is sweating in the Washington heat, running down primary charges. Bob LaFollette is also cussing the Washington weather.

Two or three Senators are investigating TVA at Knoxville. Ashurst, Hatch, and Reams, of Oregon, are investigating the petrified forest in Arizona. Warren R. Austin is cross-breeding apples at his farm in Vermont.

Joe O'Mahoney, of Wyoming, is in the Yellowstone. George Morris is on a remote R. F. D. route in Wisconsin. Gillette, of Iowa, is motoring through Minnesota.

Johnson, of Colorado, is making the Western rodeo circuit. And, oh, yes, the rest of the Senators are campaigning.

General Johnson Presents

The Most Famous "Guest Columnist"

By HUGH S. JOHNSON

(Copyright, 1938 by United Feature Syndicate, Inc. Reproduction in whole or part forbidden. All rights reserved.)

BETHANY BEACH, Del. This is a "guest columnist" deadbeating stunt. In his field my commentator was the greatest who ever lived. He is dead now. He wrote this in 1919. His name is at the bottom.

Contrary to all human experience, we are being told that colossal debt, taxes and spending are blessings and that Government can do for people what the old copy book maxims said they must do for themselves.

General Johnson

My guest doubted this. He pretends here that he was reincarnated in all geologic ages and always found men breaking those copy book axioms and suffering for it. By Gods of the Market Place he means white rabbit artists like some Third New Dealers.

"As I pass through my incarnations in every age and race,
I make my proper prostrations to the gods of the Market place.
Peering through reverent fingers I watch them flourish and fall,
And the gods of the copybook headings, I notice, outlast them all.

"We were living in trees when they met us. They showed us each in turn
That water would certainly wet us, as fire would certainly burn.
But we found them lacking in uplift, vision and breadth of mind,
So we left them to teach the gorilla while we followed the March of Mankind.

"We moved as the spirit listed. THEY never altered their pace,
Being neither cloud nor wind-borne like the gods of the Market Place,
But they always caught up with our progress, and presently word would come
That a tribe had been wiped off its icefield, or the lights had gone out in Rome.

"With the hopes that our world is built on they were utterly out of touch,
They denied that the moon was Stilton; they denied she was even Dutch;
They denied that wishes were horses; they denied that a pig had wings;
So we worshipped the gods of the market who promised these beautiful things.

"When the Cambrian measures were forming, They promised perpetual peace.
They swore if we gave them our weapons, that the wars of the tribes would cease.
And when we disarmed they sold us and delivered us bound to our foe.
And the gods of the copybook heading said: 'STICK TO THE DEVIL YOU KNOW.'

"On the first Feminian Sandstone we were promised the Easier Life
(Which started by loving our neighbor and ended by living his wife)
Till our women had no more children and the men lost reason and faith,
And the gods of the copybook heading said: 'THE WAGES OF SIN IS DEATH.'

"In the Carboniferous Epoch we were promised abundance for all,
By robbing selected Peter to pay collective Paul.
But, though we had plenty of money there was nothing our money could buy,
And the gods of the copybook headings said: 'IF YOU DON'T WORK YOU DIE.'

"Then the gods of the market tumbled, and their smooth-tongued wizards withdrew,
And the hearts of the meanest were humbled and began to believe it was true.
That all is not gold that glitters, and Two and Two make Four,
And the gods of the copybook headings limped up to explain it once more.

"As it will be in the future, it was at the birth of man —
There are only four things certain since social progress began.
That the dog returns to his vomit and the sow returns to her mire,
And the burnt Fool's bandaged finger goes wabbling back to the fire.

"And that after this is accomplished, and the brave new world begins
When all men are paid for existing and no man must pay for his sins,
As surely as water will wet us, as surely as fire will burn,
The gods of the copybook headings with terror and slaughter return!"

Of course, the "guest columnist" was Mr. Kipling.

The Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND

THE MOMENT a man ceases to admire and begins to criticise and disparage, the wings of love droop, and marriage takes a nose-dive. The moment a woman stops singing praises and begins accusing or "reforming," romance flies out of the window and discord stalks in at the door.

Because, even in the most modest of us, vanity is probably the strongest trait. The one vulnerable spot in the make-up of every human being is the vanity gland.

There is nothing in the world which makes one human being (in or outside of marriage) DISLIKE another human being so heartily as the knowledge that that other does NOT admire him or her.

On the other hand, how often have you caught yourself feeling a kindly affection for some totally unknown, unworthy or unattractive person, simply because you have heard that he or she ADMIRES you. Every friend is a looking-glass—and we love the flattering ones best!

Girl About Town

by Marjorie McBride

STORIES about newspaper reporters have enjoyed a tremendous vogue. Maybe sometime a novelist will write a story about the switchboard girls on a bustling metropolitan paper.

For excitement, drama, pathos and comedy their jobs offer as much literary material as any city room.

Marjorie McBride

The column cites Anne Crawley who has been with the Hearst newspapers in Boston for more than 20 years. Her low, pleasant "hello" voice answers hundreds of questions a day, and she's crowded a lot of rich experience into a job that might sound purely routine to a layman.

Anne probably knows the personal habits of more dignitaries in the State than any other single person you could name. She knows the "unpublished" telephone numbers of most of them . . . knows when and where they can be reached . . . where they golf, where they eat, and how often they visit their offices.

It's not part of her job, but she knows the baseball scores every night, what movie is at what theater, who won the seventh race and where the fire is.

During her years on the switchboard she's spotted any number of big stories for editors and straightened out a great deal of misinformation.

On the comedy side, Anne says she always takes a sympathetic interest in the men who call the paper for beauty information for their wives. She says they sound so furtive and helpless she hasn't the heart to laugh.

After all her contacts with newspaper people you'd think Anne would be a little weary of their antics. But she insists they're the finest set of citizens in any community!

WILLIAM C. MORRIS of Cambridge reports the annual crop of ragweed in Greater Boston is discouragingly large. And ragweed is the cause of many hay fever cases.

He would like to know why some of the official youth organizations shouldn't be started pulling it up before it reaches full blossoming and causes thousands of hay fever sufferers inconvenience.

Well, come to think of it, why shouldn't they?

A BEACON street astrologer, well-versed in the life charts of notables, has just worked out Doug Corrigan's past and future.

It's interesting to learn that he was born in the same sign of the zodiac that Lindbergh was. Corrigan's chart indicates that his adventures have just begun. Comparing his chart with Lindbergh's the astrologer finds that he will have much greater personal happiness than the "Lone Eagle."

While he will never have the fortune that Lindbergh has made since his flight, Corrigan will establish himself with sound financial returns next year. He has a "one-track" mind and is far more stable than his "wrong-way" to Dublin suggests. According to his chart!

The Brighter Side

by Damon Runyon

REPORTS from Saratoga Springs are enough to break your heart. For the first time in some years during a racing season there has been no gambling at "The Spa" outside of that which goes on at the race track.

The sad phase of the situation is that it is calculated to shatter the faith of the boys in human nature, and that faith, once destroyed, is difficult to restore. The boys have become accustomed to hearing almost every year at the opening of the Saratoga racing season that there would be no gambling but always they knew that a little later there would be plenty of gambling.

Damon Runyon

By gambling, as differentiated from the betting at the race track, we mean roulette and dice and games like that, which were conducted in casinos attached to night clubs. There are usually four or five of these gambling places going full tilt in Saratoga at this time of the year.

IN NEW YORK State, as in most other states, gambling is against the law, and where open gambling is permitted it must be through the tolerance of the officials. That brings us to the problem of whether officials, sworn to uphold the law, may rightfully tolerate violations thereof under any circumstances.

Here again, in places like Saratoga County, New York, and Dade County, Florida, some say yes and some say no. It is a situation that is constantly producing arguments in favor of legalized gambling for all manner of games of chance, the same as horse racing, and we are not inclined to think that the only way a matter of this kind can be decided is through referendum to the voters, with local option permitted.

A state like New York might vote favorably on gambling through the preponderance of votes in New York city, but we do not think the big cities should decide how the smaller and perhaps more moral communities should carry on their affairs. Incidentally we note that Henry Hirschberg, district attorney of Orange County and delegate to the New York Constitutional Convention, has revived his proposal to eliminate existing laws against gambling in the Empire State in a somewhat modified form.

If the Constitutional Convention eliminates any part of the gambling clause from the organic law it would give the Legislature power to formulate new laws dealing with gambling, and that makes it fairly certain that New York State will not have legalized gambling for a long time to come, for one reason.

The reason is that no Governor of New York would be likely to sign a gambling law. However, that is something to worry about later, and in the meantime, it might be a good idea to take up a collection and send more dollycons high and low, to Saratoga Springs to get the rest of the boys out.

New York Cavalcade

by Louis Sobol

HOLLYWOOD: The concern of the typical citizen of this film center over his health is appalling to an Easterner, who collapses every time he tries to touch his toes. The fat men of the studios have their reducing diets—the thin men their gaining diets. At one studio I watched as one executive after another went into a little room to be weighed before sitting down for lunch.

Louis Sobol

WITHOUT exaggeration, I am not placing the percentage too high when I say that 60 per cent of the film executives are acute hypochondriacs, and although Hollywood boasts its fair share of very excellent physicians, there are also a few publicity-seeking quacks and cultists — and these, strangely enough, are quite popular and enjoy lucrative practices. Except in rare instances, when the ailments are serious, no particular harm is done—because a little bitter water or a sweet pill and a cheerful professional word or two of encouragement is all the medicine required.

MY MOST exciting reading while I am here is furnished by a daily communication from Warner Bros.' studio exposing the activities of the day. Thus, at this typing, I am assured that this is the second day of the San Francisco fire and earthquake and that Miss Bette Davis' screams of horror will ring to the rafters for additional angles on the disaster. Mr. James Cagney will walk the last mile again, being shocked to death for the 56th time, and Miss Kay Francis will learn how to love from Ian Hunter. There will also be a flight of 100 planes to Honolulu and the "Dead End" kids will be chased and shot at on a few rooftops. But the nights are cool, of course.

BRIEFLETS: Currently, three of the country's leading male dancers are in Hollywood — Messrs. Fred Astaire, Ray Bolger and Georgie Tapps, and shortly the fourth, Paul Draper, will join them. Each has a distinctive style, and some day I should like to see all four in one picture or musical . . . Local agents like Louis Shurr, Bobby Crawford, Jack Curtis, Lou Irwin and others are planning to mass back temporarily into New York this Fall in preparation for what will probably be the busiest theatrical season the Big Town has had in many years . . . No less than 23 musicals are planned . . . Frequently seen together at the restaurants here are the boy producers, Mervyn LeRoy and Junior Laemmle, close friends for many years . . . Joe Penner received a package containing a zinc plate with a note pleading that he autograph the plate and send it back . . . It was to be used as one of a thousand similar placques which the sender was planning to have attached to her burial casket.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

IS THE SUPPOSEDLY privileged and pampered modern American woman in reality a "medieval serf," or just a spoiled "darling," an empty phrase? Do we educate her for power and position which we, thereafter, prevent her from achieving? Is she handicapped and humiliated in her business or professional life . . . belittled in the home . . . given the run-around generally?

Amazing charges, aren't they? And stuff just after our proud boast that Miss and Mrs. America are the most favored and fortunate females on earth! Yet the brilliant and widely-traveled Pearl S. Buck, of "Good Earth" fame, hurls them at us squarely, in the August issue of HARPER'S BAZAAR.

Elsie Robinson

And who does she blame for this distressing state of affairs?

THOSE MEANIE MALES! AND A HORRID OLD SOCIAL TRADITION WHICH STILL INSISTS THAT "WOMAN'S PLACE IS IN THE HOME"!

To be sure, she admits that We Gals aren't always a treat.

"Sometimes, I confess," says she, "I do not see how American men can endure some of their women—their impetuousness, their peevishness, their headstrongness, their utter selfishness, their smallness of mind and outlook, their lack of any sense of responsibility toward society, even to be pleasant. And their laziness—look at the motion-picture houses, the theaters, the lecture halls—crowded all day with women!"

But don't worry, sisters—she isn't really putting the bee on us. If we're lazy and restless and maybe a lil teeny-weeny-itsy-bitsy cantankerous, IT'S BECAUSE THE BIG BOYS MAKE US THAT WAY! Yes, they pet us when we're little. Give us anything we want—including super-educations.

BUT it doesn't really mean a thing. For what happens when this pampered darling "comes eagerly to life" ready to contribute her share, not only to home, but to government, science and arts? Why—"WE RAISE THE SICKENING OLD CRY OF TRADITION. 'THIS ISN'T YOUR BUSINESS! WOMAN'S PLACE IS IN THE HOME'—AND WE SHUT THE DOOR IN HER FACE."

So, says she, or words to this effect—you might's well stop trying to amount to anything, girls. Just learn your three R's . . . and how to use a nice make-up . . . and play a good hand of bridge and act pretty when Papa brings the Boys home without phoning first. For that's all this America expects of you, at any rate. And you're simply wishing grief on yourself if you pick a larger act.

Yes, it's certainly a dismal picture. But it's Pearl Buck's story and she's going to stick to it . . . which will undoubtedly make a swell hit with a lot of self-pitying Susies who like to pick their wounds and think what a Wow they'd have been if they hadn't "wasted the best years of their lives on some Miserable Wretch." But, outside of helping their own self-how much substance do you find in Mrs. Buck's analysis? For me, myself, mighty little!

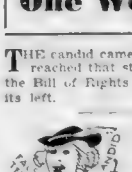
In the first place, I cannot see why Society in general Males in particular should be indicted automatically because we girls aren't all sporting streamlined offices or wearing Congressional medals. Isn't there just a shred of possibility that we HAVEN'T WHAT IT TAKES?

After all, Pearl, the ratio of geniuses to run-o'-the-mill runts is pretty skinny at the best of times. Even these so-selfish men are pretty plain pickings, taking them by and large. So why all the flame and fury because the average female has to content herself with feeding babies and running vacuum cleaners? Has she given any spectacular proof that she could swing a much bigger or better program, if said nefarious males didn't get in her way? No, she hasn't. S'matter of fact, the average mama isn't even such a hot sketch at being a housekeeper, much less doubling for Madame Curie.

One Word Led to Another

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

THE candid camera epidemic has reached that stage where even the Bill of Rights must lead with its left.



PRIVACY is 60 degrees below zero. And the only things sacred are Army orders and the white cows of Burma.

WHEN two candid cameras meet it's like a date between a scorpion and a tarantula. It all depends on who gets in the first bite.

THE ONLY privacy left now is in a plaster cast. No matter where you are, a mugg rushes out with a jitterbox and hollers, "Hold it." If it happens to be something permanent, like a bowl of goldfish, you drop it. The idea of the candid Camorra is to avoid stilted poses and studio smiles. The lads with the candid portfolios love a neat accident or a bit of impromptu leprosy.

THE OPEN-FACED periodical is a new type of pamphlet that will print anything of anybody at any stated time. We have one on the desk at the present moment showing a picture of a dignified dowager picking her teeth with a tuning fork. She comes from a musical family. That ain't such a candid pose. What makes the glue all the thicker is she happens to have the teeth in her hand and the tuning fork in her mouth. She is doing it the difficult way.

THERE are laws protecting every form of human endeavor except camera bait. Anybody with a candid mousetrap can stick the lens in your puss and snap the insulation. The next time you see your face it is on the front page of a candid magazine and you look like a hoss with a season ticket to a glue factory.

Jean Bowman Has Pet Tablecloth

By BETTY ALDEN

MANY EPICURES have some pet specialty they call for in a restaurant . . . just the right amount of romaine in the salad . . . a delicate and unusual blend of flavorings . . . etc. But Jean Bowman, Richard Pentecost's fiancee, who is visiting Anne Ayer, has the most peculiar one of all . . . a table cloth!

When she and "Penny" arrive at the Casino, Magnolia for supper and a bit of dancing, the waiters go to the linen closet and bring out her special table cloth . . . the same one she has used ever since she first started to come on from New York as "Penny's" future bride.

The explanation of this unusual procedure is simple. Jean is an accomplished charcoal artist and her favorite pastime is sketching on linen, with burnt matches. Upon her Casino tablecloth are some excellent character studies of "Penny," Eddie Wigglesworth, Jr., and other North Shoreites, as well as several drawings of horses.

It is her love of horses, as well as her charming personality which has already endeared her to the North Shore socialites who will be her neighbors after she becomes "Penny's" bride. Jean is a New Yorker and rides to hounds with the Fairfield and Westchester Hounds.

Yesterday afternoon she lent a hand with the annual gymkhana on horseback, staged on the Myopia Schooling Field for the benefit of the Hamilton Wenham Community House. She and Anne Ayer led ponies around the field for the youngsters to ride, while Penny recorded every scene with his candid camera.

The young equestrians on the Shore, who take part in the gymkhana events, obstacle races, jumping and the favorite musical stalls game, are imitating their elders in costumes, as well as riding ability . . . All the niceties of perfect grooming are observed by the fashion minded junior misses, such as Jenny McKean, who was turned out in a well cut riding habit with white stock and gold stickpin . . . Lucy Cochrane, with her blonde hair confined in a net and the two Burrage girls, Nancy and Cynthia, in beautiful soft brown tweed riding coats and green and white polka dotted bow ties.

Most of the spectators were so excited they stood right at the rail or sat on top of their cars rather than take time to find their box seats along one side of the field . . . though Ellen Moseley and Eavie Lilly strolled around and visited with different groups of friends . . . Faith Kidder sat on top of the Cochrane's beach wagon with Nancy and Lucy, while Buddy Cochrane alternated between the top of the car and the middle of the riding ring where he gave Charles Rice some able assistance in tabulating results of the various races.

The swing craze has even spread to North Shore stables . . . Sally Sears, the attractive daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Sears, has named her horse "Clarinet Marmalade," which recalls to mind jitter bugs, alligators and all the other swing terms for which the youngsters have a penchant.

Mrs. Frederick Ayer, a leader in riding events at Myopia, was in the audience to watch the performances of various members of her family and other spectators were Mrs. Q. A. Shaw McKean, in a becoming outfit of pale gray, with a natural straw hat trimmed with bright red cherries, and Mrs. Lawrence Coolidge and Mrs. Joseph Woods, each of whom had her two children, who were wide eyed spectators of the various exciting events. Mrs. Woods treated her little group and the Coolidges to ice cream cones all around before they settled down in their box to watch the program.

Mrs. Frank Jenkins and her daughter, Frances, of Brookline, returned from Europe this week on the Queen Mary.

Oyster Harbor Has New Arrivals

Down on the Cape—Mrs. Edmund S. Childs of Lexington and her daughter, Miss Phyllis Childs, are among the more recent arrivals at the Oyster Harbors Club, Osterville. This resort seems to grow in popularity because new comers arrive every day and those who have been there for any length of time display wry faces and reluctance to leave when they must return to the city.

Old residents inform us that many a new romance has started at the resorts up and down the Cape. They'll probably be confirmed with the winter social whirls.

G. Farrington Fiske Weds Next Month

Miss Virginia Mayo, of Bridgeport, Ct., will be married in September to G. Farrington Fiske, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry G. Fiske, of Sherborn. Miss Mayo daughter of Virginius J. Mayo, is a graduate of Radcliffe College and has taught at Dana Hall and the Winsor School in Boston.

Mr. Fiske is a Representative in the Massachusetts Legislature and engaged in the insurance business in Boston. He is a member of the University Club and vice-president of the Massachusetts Republican Club.

Yachtsmen Don Farmer Hats

The men who seek advice in what the gentleman yachting enthusiast should wear, might be considerably confused to see Lawrence Foster and John Howard wearing farmer hats. However, the remainder of their costumes is quite in keeping with their nautical surroundings.

New Englanders Visit New York

Miss Marian Reggio, of Chestnut Hill and Chesham, N. H. is in New York City where she is staying at the Commodore for a few days.

Miss Susan Binney, of Beacon street, is another Bostonian spending a few days in New York.

Helen Blanchard Yachting Devotee

A society belle who is taking her yachting seriously is Helen Blanchard. She selects a gentian blue cardigan with her slacks and white duck hat. And a very charming picture she presents at the tiller.

N. Y. Yacht Club Cruise At Newport

With many Bostonian sailors in its entourage, the annual midsummer cruise of the New York Yacht Club is proceeding as far as Newport today.

To fleet stopped at New London earlier in the week where it was joined by Gerard B. Lambert, former Commodore of the Eastern Yacht Club, and Mrs. Lambert, on their schooner yacht Atlantic.

Brigadier General Cornelius Vanderbilt has guests aboard his yacht Winchester for the cruise.

The fleet is due at Marblehead Sunday afternoon, where highlights of the entertainment in honor of the visiting skippers will be a large cocktail and supper party at the Eastern Yacht Club that evening.

Petting Parent Should Keep Sense of Humor

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX
Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

If you happen to be one of those optimistic fathers who proclaim at intervals they "never intend to grow old," and then discover to your horror that your daughter goes on petting parties, read right to your sense of humor.

Curb the impulse to indulge in such patriarchal platitudes as "in my days." To be in a position to give advice to your daughter, be sure first you are not a petter yourself. It's a domestic parable of "Let him who is without sin cast the first stone."

In these days of lightning gadgets telephones and high-powered cars news flies fast. If you're a petting father, you can hardly hope to keep the fact from your daughter.

A few days ago, a letter came to this column telling of a father, full of "righteous" indignation, overtaking a car in which his daughter was participating in a little roadside petting. After giving her a scorching call-down, the irate father invited the young man who was her escort to step out into the road and have his block knocked off.

The situation would have lacked the comic element if father hadn't with him the siren who had broken up their home and brought about a divorce in the family. As the daughter wrote me:

The nerve of him, daring to pull strict stuff on me, when he broke my mother's heart years ago and forced her to get a divorce!"

On this occasion, a sense of humor would have saved father from being the fool he made of himself; for, in the recriminations which followed, the sire, as well as the petting parent, got the full benefit of the daughter's reactions.

There are times when a sense of humor is almost the equivalent of a conscience. We may fall into sin and hope to obtain grace. But to have an audience for our flagrant absurdities carries no thought of mercy.

This seems to be "Father's Day," In discussing petting parents. In a day or two, we'll have "Mother's Day" and discuss those fascinating fortyish ladies, who are irresistible to daughter's boy friends.

Women have been accused of a lack of humor, but it's safe to say the wisdom of Eve would have prevented any mother from calling down her daughter in circumstances similar to those related above.

YOU CAN BE BEAUTIFUL

Anti-Wrinkle Lotion 'Lifts' Lines Right Out of Face

By ARLINE GOULD

THOUGH YOU'RE the beauty in a family of beauties . . . modern living is out to get you, and you stand no comparative chance of retaining that precious, unlined rose-petal complexion which Aunt Sophronia carried with her to the grave. That's why modern-day science ups with an anti-wrinkle lotion that in Aunt Sophronia's day would have turned on a witch-hunt in no time.

For dry, sensitive, lined skin which was once considered a hopeless proposition and added five years in appearance with each birthday starting at the 25th . . . this lotion has started a new back-to-youth movement.

Quite unlike the lubricants which attempt to feed and soften wrinkled skin, this anti-wrinkle lotion "lifts" the lines right out of your face, even those deeply established horrors called crow feet.

Honey colored, with curative and protective ingredients, it has created its own furore among British and Australian beauties whose skins are notoriously fair and notoriously weak to the battering of years.

Lovely, that crinkle have been firmed in a few treatments which are of the simplest kind. With a pledget of cotton, dab the anti-wrinkle lotion where you want it to do the work. It isn't oily, nor is it quite thin and watery. It reacts in an entirely different way on your skin. It simply disappears!

So beautifully mild is it that you can use it as a restful eye beauty treatment, saturating cotton squares with it and placing them over the eyes while you relax.

To learn the name of this miraculous "lifting" anti-wrinkle lotion which takes out deep-etched lines, phone Arline Gould, Liberty 4000, week-days until 5, or write her at the Boston American, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Elbows Need Your Attention

During the good old summer time elbows get to looking grim and dusky. Have you ever regarded your arm hinges? Perhaps not. The skin is coarse there, usually in need of lubrication.

Rub the elbows with a cut lemon to give them a mild bleaching treatment. When the lemon juice has dried, cup the elbow in the hand, friction with cocoanut oil. Don't spare your efforts; the more friction the better. Finish with a light slapping with borated talcum.

Add Surprise Note to Meat Dishes

By MARTHA LEE

Why don't you like washing dishes? Simply because it is a routine task with no element of surprise therein.

Menus likewise become monotonous if served time after time in exactly the same way. It takes a surprise now and then to add the savor and spice for making meals enjoyed.

Since meat is the center of the meal, and a most important part of it, how about a few suggestions for adding the surprise note to the meat dish?

AVOID MONOTONY THIS WAY

Season a beef pot-roast with curry powder. Garnish with lemon to serve.

Rub skillet with a cut clove of garlic before cooking pork chops. This adds a subtle but delightful flavor.

In making ground beef cakes, flatten the cakes quite thin. Pile on top of half the cakes a spoonful of savory bread dressing to which ground or finely chopped peanuts have been added. Place a cake on top of each and pinch edges together. Broil or panbroil cakes as usual.

Just before a baked ham slice is done spread the top with a combination of drained crushed pineapple and brown sugar. Return to the oven to slightly brown the pineapple.

After browning veal cutlets, add a small amount of sour cream, cover tightly, and let cook slowly. The veal cooked in this way has a delicious flavor and the liquid makes an excellent sour-cream sauce.

Broiled lamb chops have an unusual flavor, if immediately after broiling they are spread with a Roquefort cheese sauce, made by mixing 2 ounces Roquefort cheese with 2 tablespoons cream.

For dumplings served with veal stew, use tomato juice as the liquid. This gives the dumplings a pink color and an excellent flavor.

For a savory bread dressing, add browned pork sausage to bread crumbs and other seasonings.

• • •

Meat salads are satisfying and deserve a definite place in summer menu planning. By observing a few simple precautions in making they can be delightful food to give that well-fed feeling that is sometimes lacking in cool, crisp salads.

HINTS ON MAKING MEAT SALADS

All ingredients for salads should be thoroughly chilled before combining them.

Any kind of cold cooked meat may be used for salad. Cold roast veal pork, ham or lamb make excellent meat salads. If no cold cooked meat is on hand, frankfurters or other of the ready-to-serve meats may be used for excellent salad combinations.

• • •

The addition of diced celery, cucumber, of lettuce adds crispness to any salad.

"RACKET BUSTERS" by Joseph Mulvaney

New Violence Grips Helpless Metropolis

CHAPTER 10

Novelized from the story by Robert Rosson and Leonardo Bercovici. A Cosmopolitan production released by Warner Bros., and opening today at the Fenway and Paramount Theaters. Approved by the Commercial Crime Commission.

"And it doesn't make the slightest difference who or what they are," exclaimed Special Prosecutor Allison, facing the Governor in the State House. "Rich man, poor man, beggar man, thief, doctor, lawyer, Indian chief—they won't testify against those who oppress them. We lose's merchants, corporations executives, bankers, shipowners—the seven fear seals their lips."

"You're contributing on the racket-and-trucking racket now?" asked the Governor, coldly. He was calm and poised, impossible to ashame, impossible to bend by any form of bribery.

"Yes," insisted Martin, "because the food supply of the city is at stake and because if I can get Martin and jail him on that count, every other racket in the town will collapse.

"Racketeering is a vicious [illegible] man, defied me to my face. 'Nobody can touch us,' he said, 'we have every police department in the country paid for. And we get what we want.'

"That's why I'm here.

"There isn't a law [illegible] house that controls a man to the right. The people [illegible] are too much afraid. We need a law passed that will make the whole racket of trucking a public service, as much as the control of the [illegible] under which [illegible] Men [illegible] have to be beaten—and they are going to now."

THE GOVERNOR ACTS

"If you get this law, you believe you can smash the racket?" the Governor asked.

"I know," answered Special Prosecutor Allison.

"Draw a bill covering just what you want that."

Here it is," [illegible] the train coming to [illegible] with me," the Governor said. "We'll make a new law. I have [illegible] the Senate and Assembly and send a special message calling for its enactment as a police emergency."

Newspapers proclaimed the passage of the Peyton Law within the week. The Governor's emergency message [illegible] an hour after it went through the Legislature without the opposition of a single vote in the final showdown.

When Martin entered the office of the Manhattan Trucking Association on the day of enactment, Gus the strong arm man and others of the same breed were reading the newspaper comments [illegible]. The bosses tore the paper from them and cast it on the floor with a sneer.

TERROR GRIPS CITY

"I know it's not the Chinese or the Spanish war you're reading about. You're worrying about yourselves. Well don't. There's a [illegible] against a lot of things, and they ain't got to do with you. Keep your noses clean and you'll be all right."

Martin left the room, followed by Gus, who caught him in the hall.

"Listen, Martin," he said, "I know you're a square guy. Don't get sore at me. I'm only trying to help you. Lay off this Allison guy. He's poison. Let him alone and he'll let you alone."

"We've got the trucks on the run," New York will take over the [illegible] territories. We start right now on Mr. Special Prosecutor. And you all know we're not to be touched. We want to meet us, as it [illegible] over."

Just a yes or no from each [illegible] in Brooklyn in Washington Market and then in the other [illegible]."

"I'll work fast. I'll pass the word to the general field crew. And what I want is a unanimous 'yes'—remember that!"

They went and within the hour squadrons were canvassing the commission merchants.

The Martin agents were greeted with sharp refusal or derisive laughter at first.

Then stores were bombarded by stink bombs, chemicals were sprayed over perishable fruit scales were wrecked, windows smashed, doors cracked and Martin exhibited his power once more and in the same fashion disgraced when he had tied trucking in a knot for an hour, a fortnight earlier.

HORSE DECLINES

Police cars and fire apparatus surged to save life and property and restore order. Warnings against poisoned food were broadcast from the Health Department and as the turmoil subsided, Danny Jordan walked into the office of Horse Wilson, his old trucking partner. Horse greeted him.

"I don't know what you want, now, but the answer is 'no.' I've been hearing things about you."

"Listen, Horse, don't pile up grief for yourself. You see what happening. I've beat Martin off you as long as I can. I can't hold him much longer."

"Goodbye," replied Horse, icily. "I ain't saying nothing today. Can I sell you some fine first grade beefsteak tomatoes, Mr. Jordan?"

"No. Well, do stop in again when I've more time."

"Okay, Horse," said Danny shaking his head. "You're begging for it."

Horse Wilson's shop was the last objective of Martin's bombers and they made desolation of it.

Between the poisonous fumes of the explosive filth, the crushing of tons of crated tomatoes, the destruction of glass and woodwork, the place resembled a barn on a battlefield.

Horse, chapfaced, half-suffocated, [illegible] the ruin of his business. Then for the second time, the carnage ceased and the raiders fled.

Scores of suspects were rounded up and almost all discharged. But at the police line-up in headquarters next morning Special Prosecutor Allison and Pop watched the [illegible] pass under the glaring lights as an officer shouted:

"George Bixby . . . Eddie Crane . . ."

Pop whispered to the Prosecutor who passed the word to a policeman at his side.

"Hold Crane!"

POP IS THREATENED

The fox-faced thug was drawn from the line and the chant continued:

"Jack Seaman . . . Sam Kimball."

Again Pop whispered and this time Kimball was dropped from the line. The pair were the entire catch of the net. As they were led to the pen past the Special Prosecutor and Pop Crane muttered:

"You got a good memory, Pop, like Charlie had."

And Kimball added with sinister significance:

"So have we!"

At first flash that the things were held Martin telephoned the gang attorney for quick action.

"Get them out and keep them out. What I care we a bail bond company for?"

Reminded that New York police can hold anyone 24 hours without a charge, the Big Shot relented.

"Get them into court and arraigned. I don't care what the charges. Well, have all the enough to get court continuation. They got to take bail for anything except murder. I want those boys sprung and sprung fast. Hop to it."

The machinery began to turn and started the secret machinery set up inside the law enforcing agencies of the city. They started.

Horse Wilson after ambulance treatment found himself facing a subpoena in a [illegible] case. Shaking his head in bewilderment he followed the [illegible] on to the Special Prosecutor's office.

GLADYS TALKS

For an hour he would believe Allison, who read him and then the questions came fast, the answers slow. The record runs like this:

Question: Do you know who [illegible] bombs into your place and wrecked it?

Answer: No. I just seen a gang of guys crash in.

Q. Would you recognize any of them?

A. No. I was near knocked by the gas them bombs let out. All I could see was faggots running.

Q. Did anyone ask you to join any association before this?

A. Why, no, not that I remember.

Q. Search your memory deeper. Take your time. Did any person come to your store and give you warning of an act that this might happen?

A. (After a long pause) Why, no, I wouldn't say so. No nobody at all that I can remember.

Q. Now, let's have just one word for an answer. Is it 'Yes' or 'No'?

A. If you got to have it that way, the answer's 'no.'

Sweating in the toils the loyal old Horse was an Allison knew it. He pressed a button. An attendant entered.

"Send Miss Johnson in."

At that the sweat dripped off the witness and he started to say but Allison waved him back to the chair.

"You're sure your memory isn't refreshed, sure you don't want to change your mind?"

"No," choked Horse, bitterly. "Let it go as it lays."

"Don't you mean, as it lies for the record?" asked the prosecutor, ominously but Horse did not try to crack back. He sat in the chair awaiting the coming of his sweetheart as a doomed man awaits the lethal current.

Gladys entered the room, hurtled and nervous then stopped at sight of Horse's troubled face. The District Attorney demanded:

"Miss Johnson you visited Wilson's store just before it was wrecked. Did you see anyone else there?"

"I saw why just as I was going away I saw I mean I thought I saw somebody."

"And who did you see or think you saw?"

Horse shook his head and Gladys saw him but Allison did too and the Prosecutor said, solemnly:

"Just a minute now. We now have a law that permits the imprisonment of a man for refusing to testify or for withholding testimony or for false swearing or giving false information. Now, you two make your choice. Are you going to jail or tell the truth and all the truth?"

"I'll tell you straight," blurted Gladys, "I saw—"

"You'll shut up," roared Horse. "I'm taking this rap."

"Not for that rat, you won't while I have a tongue in my head."

GLADYS TELLS TRUTH. Girl friend of "Horse" Wilson gives evidence to Special Prosecutor Allison. She accuses Denny Jordan, "Horse's" friend. This is a scene from "Racket Busters," the Cosmopolitan production opening today at the Fenway and Paramount Theaters. It is endorsed by the Commercial Crime Commission as a Public Service story and picture. Left to right, Allen Jenkins as "Horse" Wilson; Walter Abel as Prosecutor Allison, and Penny Singleton as Gladys.

"Keep him out of it, Baby," warned Horse "for he had nothing to do with it. All he did was tip me off what might happen and—"

Yeah and it did happen and it hit away. I saw him as I was going out.

"GET DENNY JORDAN!"

That don't prove a thing," shouted Horse while the Special Prosecutor sat quietly and eagerly listening to the clattering dispute which stenographers pounded to the smallest syllable. He got what he wanted when Gladys in crescendo of tone cried:

"To me it does! I prove Denny Jordan was the biggest man. That's why!"

Horse's face went pale and he slumped back in the chair as if the electrical shock had passed through him. Fearless cynics burned to his side with fear.

"Forgive me, Horse but I was you or him I had to [illegible] Horse. It was you or him and I—"

Slowly with a stricken stupid stare Horse closed her lips, shuddered and swayed even slumping.

"Heaven forgive me, Horse but what could I do. . . and it was coming to him . . . it was coming to him."

Special Prosecutor Allison turned, pressed a lever on a telephone and said:

"Pick up Denny Jordan."

(But Denny Jordan can't be picked like a plum off a tree and Martin's mob strike again before the Special Prosecutor can check the racketeers. The 11th chapter of "Racket Busters" in the Boston Evening American tomorrow carries thrills aplenty.)

Handwriting Is Guide to Courtship

By HELEN PAYNE

The analysis of handwriting is like a mirror that discloses not only our good points but our bad ones too.

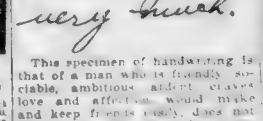
To be able to intelligently understand your prospective husband (or wife) is to be aware of the cause of weakness, the motives which often lie hidden in the inner self.

Many mistakes and much unhappiness may be avoided if both parties contemplating marriage submit their handwriting to a handwriting psychologist for analysis. This impersonal diagnosis uncolored by emotional sentiment or romantic prejudice, will often reveal traits that are better known before marriage than after, and so avoid future unhappiness and misunderstandings.

WEAKNESSES HIDDEN

During courtship both parties are mostly on their best behavior naturally, and the weaknesses of both lie hidden under the guise of pleasantries, but through the analysis of their handwriting may be disclosed some disconcerting truths.

In living together day after day there is need for understanding and tolerance to insure harmony and permanence, and this is only achieved by knowing and understanding each other's weaknesses and idiocyncrasies.



This specimen of handwriting is that of a man who is friendly sociable, ambitious, ardent, craves love and affection, would make and keep friends readily, does not like petty details, could not possibly be happy with a mate who was not his type.

He should marry a woman who could stand on her own feet, mix socially with people, one who would enjoy "going" and "doing" with him.

If however, he had to "put up with" someone who expected or demanded that he do things their way, (which might be carefully, quietly, precisely and "just so") he would soon rebel.

If you are in doubt as to any apparently underlying weakness that you "think" your "heart interest" has, send in a generous sample of his (or her) handwriting to be analyzed, or if you wish to send in samples of the two interested parties, you can soon tell whether you would "get along."

Follow directions in the new coupon carefully. More about "Choosing Your Mate" in this column tomorrow

MARKETS BOSTON AMERICAN COMMENT

Orders Needed To Aid Business

By MERRYLE STANLEY RUKEYSER
International News Service Economic Commentator

NEW YORK, Aug. 11 (INS)—Silly doctrinaire attacks on the profit motive should be related to net income reports of American corporations for the first half of 1938.

If boys who are trying for the Big League [illegible] business profits than the [illegible] shrinkage in corporate profits as compared with the first six months of 1937 would have been a cause of good news.

For net earnings of 383 out of 420 corporations which [illegible] many of the stronger companies reported a decline in profits of 40 per cent and its total for the period a [illegible] of $17,941,000 was recorded for 22 railroads and [illegible] earnings decreased 10 per cent.

In addition commercial failures increased 44 per cent with 55 per cent greater liabilities than were involved in the [illegible] of the first half of 1937.

SHRINKAGE IN ORDERS

Thus if there were [illegible] less warfare between employers and employees, such [illegible] strikes would be [illegible] a minimum.

However the [illegible] in the period emphasized the [illegible] partnership [illegible] among workers, management and owners.

All three were [illegible] another.

When the shrinkage [illegible] fewer orders [illegible] workers part time [illegible] fewer hours per week. This even [illegible] where hourly rates were unaltered weekly wages which determine the living standards of families were affected sharply.

In many instances the salaries of management were reduced [illegible] lowered downward.

Wages of capital in the form of dividends were [illegible] of the [illegible] were [illegible] by Mr. [illegible] the ratio of the [illegible] profits [illegible] with the first half of 1937.

The interests of a business in terms of [illegible] years and [illegible] and wage earners depends on the ability of [illegible] to [illegible] a flow of orders [illegible] customers.

ALL TAKE LICKING

If customers cut [illegible] for price considerations or because they do not like the merchandise or because their own purchasing power has been lessened when a business decline is general within the corporation.

Accordingly capital, labor, and management take a [illegible]

This is perfectly true when the operation is viewed in terms of bookkeeping realities.

Every element in the business must take its compensation out of the receipts from gross sales of goods and services to customers.

When the gross is reduced then the amount available for distribution is altered.

Certain items such as taxes, rent and interest are fixed and beyond the control of management. Labor, whose goods purchased from others must be bought at the market.

The residue available for workers and capital absorbs the principle shrinkage.

When orders are down employment is curtailed.

The adjustment is not always immediate and automatic. [illegible] in the 1931-1934 period, corporations with savings accumulated during the old deal, voluntarily assessed the liquid assets of the company to [illegible] some workers on payrolls even though current orders did not warrant so doing.

DEPRESSION SUFFERERS

The capital cost runs on through hard times as well as prosperity, yet through dividend omissions companies make the owners take the rap.

When the business operation is thus analyzed the partnership nature of the process becomes self evident.

So-called profit about which the [illegible] rant, is really a payment for the use of the tools.

An adequate profit does not necessarily hurt any other element in the business. It usually results from efficiency in operations, from the elimination of waste.

And through 64,000,000 life insurance policy holders, 44 million savers, and 1,000,000 to 1,200,000 owners of corporate shares, the broad general public suffers from depression in their role as owners as well as in their capacity as wage earners.

Good News

WALLA WALLA, Wash., Aug. 11 (AP)—Harvesting the inland empire's "biggest wheat crop in years," started today. Federal statisticians reported prospects of 50,388,000 bushels from Washington wheat ranches—the largest crop since 1927. The July estimate for Oregon was 20,515,000, against a [illegible] year average of 19,965,000 bushels, while Idaho's crop is expected to total 30,752,000, against a 24,741,000-bushel average for the past 10 years.

CLEVELAND, Aug. 11—Hiram S. Rents, president of Industrial Rayon Corporation, stated today that there had been a decided improvement in the company's business. Shipments during July were approximately 30 per cent above those for June and 61 per cent above the average monthly shipments for the first six months of this year.

Western Union business is picking up slightly, reflecting general business conditions. Preliminary estimates indicate that July gross was between 8 per cent and 9 per cent below a year ago, as compared with an average loss for first six months of this year of about 12 per cent.

NEW YORK, Aug. 11—Spurred by growing indications that fall retail trade will come close to levels of a year ago, and with stocks well liquidated, retailers and large mail order houses are gradually increasing their orders for finished textile goods. Operations for mills and manufacturers is dependent upon a more normal movement of goods to retail outlets and thence to the consumer.

Machine tool sales are better in Boston, according to facts gathered by the American Machinist's Review. General Electric has received a $712,000 naval gear order requiring machinery purchases and an extension of its Lynn plant.

Uncle Sam Spends $17,393 a Minute

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11 (INS)—Spending at the rate of $17,392.54 every minute, day and night, the federal government has put out more than 1000 million dollars in the first six weeks of the fiscal year which began July 1 a treasury department report revealed tonight.

Expenditures totaling $1,026,914,981, have been almost double the revenues collected, $567,415,541.

HOURLY
PLAY-BY-PLAY IN THE
STOCK MARKET

Rallying tendencies at the outset failed to follow through and for the fourth day the majority of issues slid over to the downside. A fair rally marked initial dealings, but it was of short duration. A slow selling wave turned leaders back from fractions to around two points. All groups showed weakness.

10-11—Lessening of war tension in the Far East through the Russo-Japanese armistice resulted in a rebound of stocks. On the rally only a slight increase in buying power developed. Trading continued light. A number of leaders retrieved fractions around a point of recent loses. Numerous issues were unable to make the grade and remained behind minus symbols. General Motors was featured and on the sale of a 2500 block rose nearly a point. Chrysler shared the upturn. Steels, coppers and rails generally moved into higher ground. Radio was in heavy demand. Transactions ran to 230,000 shares.

11-12 Advances were clipped down and more issues began to appear on the downside. The slow selling drift turned leaders back fractions to 2 points. While the pace was slow throughout, it was noted that activity picked up a bit on declining intervals. Near mid-day quotations were a shade above the lows. Some of the heaviest losses were hung up by Air Reduction, duPont, Union Pacific, Union Carbide and Owens Illinois Glass. Chrysler was resistant along with U. S. Steel. Glenn L. Martin, United Aircraft, Boeing and Santa Fe. Turnover totaled 480,000 shares.

12-1 The appearance of offerings quickened the pace as a rout and prices eased gradually. Then some support came into the market and extreme losses were reduced in many cases. The rally did not carry far and soon the trend was definitely down again. A disturbing factor was a break in wheat futures to new five year lows with corn equally weak. U. S. Rubber issues were soft as the result of a six months' earnings statement with its absorbing a net loss of $239,213. Among the leaders lacking in rising vigor were U. S. Steel, Sears Roebuck, General Motors, Chrysler, American Telephone, Anaconda, Westinghouse and Union Carbide. The volume was 600,000 shares.

1-2 Fraction by fraction prices drifted lower. All rallying moves proved fruitless. Sporty trading conditions kept rails subdued. Basic agricultural issues tended to chill farm implement stocks. Many issues were at new lows for the year. Weak as well as other groups had to contend with selling. July sales. The break of General Motors through 46 was followed by renewed pressure. At the point many pivotal stocks showed reactions of from a point to two points. Transfers were 760,000 shares.

Deal Planning Recovery Chat

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11 (INS)—New Deal plans to summon business and industrial leaders to the capital for a conference to promote prosperity through cooperation with the government were revealed today to International News Service.

The plan became known as Secretary of Commerce Roper, returning to his office after a month's vacation in Europe declared "definite business progress" has been made and forecast "further momentum" will be given the recovery drive this fall.

The proposal for the business conference will be handed formally to President Roosevelt shortly after he arrives in Washington Friday. New Deal sources said they expected Mr. Roosevelt to give the "go ahead" sign immediately.

The plan is that of Richard C. Patterson, Jr., assistant secretary of commerce, one of President Roosevelt's personal spokesmen on business.

According to present plans business and industrial leaders from every walk of the nation's economic life—housing, steel, automobiles, retail and wholesale trade, manufacturers and durable goods—will be invited here for a round-table diagnostic economic conference.

Zorina Not to Play 'I Married An Angel'

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS
Motion Picture Editor International News Service

NEW YORK, Aug. 11—Zorina, the darling of New York, is going to be a heartbroken gal when she hears there's not a chance of her playing her hit role in "I Married An Angel" on the screen.

The big trouble is that Sam Goldwyn and Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer (who own a part interest in the show) cant get together. Metro won't sell their rights in the play to Sam—and Sam won't give up Zorina to star for another company.

But the "Angel" of Broadway seems in the clear too badly, for Sam has recruited Richard Connell who has turned out many hit musical plays, to write an original for Zorina based on the life and loves of an actress. If that isn't enough to make her happy, her favorite boy friend, George Balanchine will originate the dance numbers just as he did for "The Goldwyn Follies" and "I Married An Angel."

Louella Parsons

In the meantime Zorina has time off from the show for one day to fly down to Cuba and come in under the immigration quota.

CHATTER IN NEW YORK: Caryl Bergman is the lithe-limbed light footed girl who, as a youngster of fifteen, understudied Marilyn Miller in "Rosalie" and "Smiles." Caryl's ambition always has been to play the role her adored Marilyn created in "Sally," and her dream came true when a summer stock opportunity broke. She learned her talking, dancing, singing role in six days and made her bow as "Sally."

Opposite her was Alexander Gray. Marilyn's hero in the original stage production and the film and the leading juvenile was Chester O'Brien, who was Marilyn's husband.

Austen Lake:

Old Mr. Baseball Returns to Boston

HAVING YIELDED A PINT OF RICH, RED blood to his ailing daughter Dorothy in a recent transfusion, Babe Ruth is coming "home" to Boston tomorrow in the alien regimentals of the Brooklyn Dodgers. Not that Babe recognizes Boston as his sentimental residence any more. He disowned the city where, by his own industry and some happy accidents, he first became rich, beloved and successful on the June afternoon of 1935 when he resigned as outfielder, vice-president and manager-elect of the Braves, and sealed it with a kiss of profanity, so to speak.

AUSTEN LAKE

Babe is lumpier in his soft portions now than when he went away. His big body has become adipose through good food and leisure. So he looks like an enlarged caricature of the man who had called the press into the Braves rubbing-room in that cold and ominous June day and delivered his obsequies in a dismal growl. "God knows, boys, I hate to say this . . .".

Babe never knew that while he was saying this Judge Fuchs was sitting in his upstairs sanctum licking the flap of a dismissal envelope which he would give the Babe to retire for the sake of his old baseball heart. So he got the official heave-ho in that portion of his being ruled by the golden maximus.

He Never Had the Chance

SO TOMORROW, BABE, WHOSE LIKE MAY never be known again in our generation, is coming back to pull on his woolen bloomers, roll them into his stocking tops in a little doughnut pucker and sit simmering and perspiring gently in the dingy quarters reserved by the Boston Bees for visiting athletes.

Presently he will duck-waddle through the underground tunnel and emerge in the field to show his gingerbread features to the people and stand patiently scribbling autographs for the hundreds who still worship the magic of his name. For though Babe is now 44 and past the period where he can jiggle over the sward on his macaroni legs or arch the ball over the outfield screens, he is still little less than first in the hearts of his countrymen.

[illegible] the pre-Quinn Braves had carried out the [illegible] with a Pompeian flair, as he is affectionately called in the N[illegible] League, Babe proceeded to [illegible] his managerial majesty on the [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

After he had dropped a hint that Speed-e was available to do more than scrub canvas the tarp for the Hub's ninth Weaver Golf Tournament was last reported headed for Portland Me., but no trace of him has been unearthed even by Lloyd the Boston Terrier.

So, before the Boston Evening American and Sunday Advertiser gets a reputation of more an author-ity on the exits of than the losing Mr. Weaver must be located and taken by the hair.

and do odd chores as baseline coach. All around him other teams have fired their managers and hired others, but never Babe. And the forgotten man grew tired of sitting in his New York apartment waiting for the telephone to ring or a messenger to push his door bell bringing summonses to come and boost by sheer brain-power some club up the ramparts of glory.

So Babe accepted a small-time part in the show he once headlined, and tomorrow he is coming back to the spot where he shed the last of his shining glory—the little acre of green grass in the Bees' left field when he almost sheered off his body bolt and blew up. His fuses in bandylegged gallops after pop flies. He is rich, popular and a legendary figure in the game that has given him everything except the one gift his heart craves. He has passed through the stages of envy now, after having been successively puzzled exasperated and frantic in his large way, to a kind of docile acceptance of a thwarted ambition. He is just humbly happy to mingle with the beloved smells of his old profession and be again part of the scenes he knew in his dwindling youth.

Leo Durocher Fined $50

NEW YORK, Aug 11 (AP)—Shortstop Leo Durocher of the Brooklyn Dodgers has been fined $50 by National League President Ford Frick for a run in with Umpire Tim Parker in Tuesday's Dodger-Phillies game.

Durocher explained that he was needling Catcher Spud Davis of the Phils from the bench during the game and that Parker must have thought the remarks the flippy one was passing were addressed to him, instead.

The umpire banished Durocher and, in appealing the ejection the Brooklyn shortstop said several things Parker didn't like.

Larry MacPhail In Baseball Sun | Louis, Rosenbloom Wanted on Coast

By JACK CONWAY

NEW YORK, Aug. 11—LARRY MacPHAIL, business manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers, is today one of the most discussed sports characters in New York as a result of his recent blast at President Will Harridge of the American League, and the success of night baseball in Brooklyn.

Mr. Boston

MacPhail brought showmanship and color to Brooklyn baseball, and does not hesitate in speaking what is on his mind in a forceful manner.

Babe Ruth has been part of MacPhail's Brooklyn ballyhoo, and the former home run king has already drawn at the gate more money than he will receive for his services.

MacPhail has done more for Ruth than the American League did once Babe was unable to make home runs. In helping Ruth, MacPhail has also done something for Brooklyn and for himself.

Short sighted baseball magnates with an eye for trial balances will realize one day that figures do not always show what great baseball heroes like Ruth and Mickey Cochrane are worth to the game to which they devoted the best years of their lives.

Firing of Cochrane Hit in New York

FIRING OF MICKEY COCHRANE has been hit hard by New York baseball writers and fans. They are unanimous in declaring that it was a case of the front office delivering a cruel and unnecessary blow to one of the game's idols.

Cochrane has thousands of friends in New York, as is true of every other place he has played. Mickey always gave his best to baseball, and he was entitled to better treatment than he received in the final play off.

The Detroit club has tried to soften the attacks against itself by releasing the information that Cochrane was paid $36,00 a year while he managed the Tigers.

Even if Mickey had received $100,000 a year as manager, it would not have been justification of the shabby actions of the Detroit management in firing him late in the pennant fight.

If the Detroit management was dissatisfied with Cochrane, it could have been decent enough to retain him as manager until the season ended and then permit the Bridgewater favorite to withdraw gracefully from the Detroit baseball picture which he had built up by his own efforts.

Joe Jacobs Tells Tony Galento's Plans

I MET JOE JACOBS, manager of Tony Galento, at the Twentieth Century Club.

"I am taking Galento out of the hospital tomorrow," said Joe.

"I shall then have him rest for two months, after which I shall give him a warm up bout in the Newark Armory, another match in Philadelphia and then a major contest in the huge auditorium in Atlantic City on Washington's Birthday.

"Galento is now only seven pounds lighter than when he entered the hospital. He still has has his old spirit and is already talking about fighting.

"The other day Tony walked around his bed in the hospital and jockingly told me that was his road work for the day."

Jacobs stated that Galento's bout with John Henry Lewis would have drawn $200,000 if it had gone through on schedule. The promoters had $82,000 in the bank when it was necessary to call off the tussle because of Galento's illness.

* * *

JOE LOUIS, who is here to attend the Armstrong-Ambers bout, says he is willing to fight any time Mike Jacobs names an opponent for him. Louis says he prefers keeping in action even if the tax collectors end up with most of the money he earns for the remainder of the year.

Max Baer and Maxie Rosenbloom are being mentioned as opponents for Louis. The Baer bout will take place in New York, while a title contest with Rosenbloom is being mentioned for the West Coast.

Rosenbloom recently held Bob Pastor to a ten-round draw, and Coast promoters believe Maxie would give Louis plenty of opposition.

It is believed that a bout between Louis and Rosenbloom in Los Angeles would draw $200,000.

Garden in New Boxing Deal

THE NEW YORK GARDEN has made a new boxing deal with Mike Jacobs' Twentieth Century Club. Under the new set-up, the Garden and the Twentieth Century Club will split profits and losses on ring shows.

This deal puts the Garden back into the boxing game in a better position than it has had for several years. Under its former agreement with the Garden, the Twentieth Century Club paid rental for the use of the Garden and for the Garden Bowl in Long Island.

The indoor boxing season at the Garden will open the latter part of September. Mike Jacobs plans weekly shows and will try to stage as many heavyweight matches as possible in an effort to get a suitable opponent for Joe Louis.

With Tony Galento listed to box in Newark, Philadelphia and in Atlantic City, Mike Jacobs cannot expect any assistance from the Newark tavern keeper.

If Galento should win his proposed matches, Muggsy Taylor will be prepared to offer Louis $500,000 for a title bout against Galento in Philadelphia next Summer. The Twentieth Century Club, of course, would have to be cut in on the promotion.

Dempsey and Tunney drew $1,800,000 in Philadelphia, and Taylor is of the opinion that the right match will draw a top crowd in the City of Brotherly Love.

A Louis-Galento tussle, if it should ever take place in Philadelphia, would be held in the Sesqui-Centennial Stadium, where Tunney won the championship from Dempsey.

Title Bout Put Over to Wednesday

NEW YORK, Aug. 11 (INS)—A heavy rainfall and resultant apathy among the prospective customers forced postponement of lightweight champion Lou Ambers' title defense against Henry Armstrong until Wednesday night of next week.

Along with the change in date, the venue also was shifted from the Polo Grounds to Madison Square Garden.

The postponement was decided upon after a conference between Promoter Mike Jacobs and Managers Al Weill and Eddie Mead, the former representing Ambers and Mead the mouthpiece for the challenger, who was a prohibitive favorite to become the first man in boxing history to hold three titles at the same time.

Lou Ambers

He already is featherweight and welterweight champion, and was held at 3 to 1 and 5 to 1 to beat Ambers for the lightweight crown.

With a bright sun that shone down all day suddenly obfuscated by murkiness and the threat of rain, the customers were scared off from the show, and only about 10,000 were on hand when the postponement was decided upon a little more than an hour before the main event, scheduled for 10 o'clock.

The fighters will have to weigh in all over again next Wednesday at noon before the State Boxing Commission.

B's Spurn Giants Bid For Tony Cuccinello

It's contrary to the policy of baseball clubs to announce salaries of managers or players. So when Walter O. Briggs, Sr., stated that the Detroit Tigers had paid Mickey Cochrane $146,000, it sounded as if the Motor City magnate was looking for sympathy, which, in Black Mike's case, the Detroit moguls will discover is found only under the S's. I wonder how much the fans paid the Detroit club to watch baseball under the Cochrane regime . . . Do you know that Bob Quinn refused a fortune for Tony Cuccinello? The offer was made by the New York Giants. After he saw Tony strut his stuff yesterday, I'll wager Bill Terry wished he had raised the bid. But Terry could have gone down through the Stoneham millions without getting the nod from Bob Quinn . . Jack Doyle, world famous betting commissioner, sat in on yesterday's Bees-Giants game. He stated that the first bet he ever made on a golf match was that Francis Ouimet would defeat Ted Ray and Harry Vardon in the play off for the U. S. championship at The Country Club in 1913. And the "button hole maker" that laid him $200 to $10 took a run out powder . . .To prevent a repetition of the first game rally that cost his Bees the verdict, Casey Stengel stayed out on the lines all yesterday afternoon . . . There's an extra large ground crew working daily to bring Brae Burn back after the recent rains . . . "Doc" May, the Bees trainer is anxious to affiliate himself with some New England college, prep or high school as supervisor of the physical condition of the football squad . . .Bob Quinn states that Eddie Miller, the latest acquisition to the Bee family, is the best looking minor leaguer he has seen this season. If Miller comes through as predicted, Rabbit Warstler will be the utility short stop and second baseman, which will give Casey Stengel protection in the middle of his infield, which he hasn't had this season . . . Judging from the smoothness of Vince DiMaggio's swing of late, Casey Stengel has finally sold the great center fielder the idea of swinging not too hard nor too easy . . . Just medium speed . . . The Bannon brothers, famous old time ball players, are innkeepers in Ipswich.

ELBIE, BUSY BEE OFF BASE

Elbie Fletcher, smart young first sacker for the Bees, has no trouble keeping busy in baseball season! When he's not holding down No. 1 cushion at National League Field, Elbie is chief handy man and "fixer-upper" around the Fletcher house at Milton, Mass. He's mighty handy with a hammer and saw. He mixes a swell batch of Wheaties cookies on occasion. And he does a swell job on a Wheaties breakfast, mornings!

A morning job that's a big favorite with Elbie—his breakfast workout with Wheaties! He says, "You can't beat Wheaties for champion flavor!" And when you enjoy a big bowl of those toasted whole wheat flakes with milk or cream and fruit, you'll agree! That's a "Breakfast of Champions"—a nourishing meal you'll want to enjoy often!

"A good man to have around." That's the Fletcher pup's opinion of his ball-playing master. When Elbie works around the house, you'll usually find his canine helper supervising the job.

Quinn Buys Infield Phenom

Miller to Join B's in Spring

By WALTER KILEY

A spirit of enthusiasm and jubilation pervades the inner sanctum of the Beehive, where President Bob Quinn, Manager Casey Stengel and other members of the Bees' official family feel that a new and far brighter era is just around the corner.

Purchase of Eddie Miller, sensational shortstop from Kansas City, gives a decided impetus to the optimism. Quinn feels he scored a ten strike in getting this 22-year-old youngster, regarded as the finest shortstop in the minors.

Gil English

That the Bees had to come across with four players, Catcher Johnny Riddle, Gil English and two as yet unannounced who will be shipped along later, together with the startling sum said to be $50,000, is evidence just how serious the Swarm fathers are in this business of turning the club into a winner.

Quinn has long been advised on the possibilities of Miller, but he did not make his overtures until he had inspected the youngster personally.

There is no chance that Miller will come to Boston before next spring. Kansas City is in the thick of the American Association race and will, without a doubt, reach the playoffs, which won't be completed almost into the middle of October.

Stengel was all smiles when Dick Errickson, with his sinker and fine curve ball, turned back the Giants, finally going the route.

Ol' Case has been bullish on this rookie youngster all season and has continually predicted that he would make the grade. He looks for Richard Merriwell to come along way before next season rolls around.

Dick Bartell's three weird errors of Tuesday were as nothing compared to the three wild heaves turned in by the Giants yesterday, making possible some four of the Boston tallies. Cliff Melton broke out a Balloener in the first inning, which permitted Garms and Cooney to score, a play on which he had all the time in the world to make the throw to first for the putout. Mel Ott and Bill Ohrman were guilty of similar tosses later.

• • •

Lou Fette's strained side is coming along well and he expects to be ready to pitch against Brooklyn over the week-end.

HAY FEVER and ASTHMA

Science has not yet found a preparation which will give relief to all hay fever and asthma sufferers. This is understandable when one realizes that both of these conditions can be caused by many things such as various pollens from flowers and weeds, perfumes, animal hairs, improper diet, etc. However, science has discovered that many cases of hay fever and asthma get amazing relief from the administration of a certain vital food element. Allergen, a rich source of this important element, gives relief to thousands of sufferers year in and year out. In fact, if Allergen is taken early enough, hay fever and asthma can often be prevented. Allergen is put up in inexpensive, easy-to-take tablets containing no harmful drugs. Sufferers who clip this ad and bring it in can obtain a FREE SAMPLE and full information.

44 Yachts In 'Head' Race

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 11 (AP)—The waters off Brenton Reef where America's cup skippers have battled each other for years today became a rendezvous for 44 racing craft of the New York Yacht Club, competing for the Astor Cup during their annual cruise to Marblehead, Mass., and return.

Besides the Astor Cup race, two other tests also were scheduled, one for cruising yachts and another for the navy members' cup. A noon start was listed for the Astor cup race, first of the three.

The fleet sailed into Newport harbor last night from New London, Ct. The "Club Run" trophy offered by Rear Commodore E. Townsend Irwin went to Harold S. Vanderbilt, skipper of last year's successful America's Cup defender Ranger, who piloted his 46-foot sloop Prestige here in the fastest corrected time.

The fleet will race to Vineyard Haven tomorrow and to Marblehead Saturday.

National League Teeing Off on Vander Meer

By Associated Press

You never can tell in this baseball business. The fellow who draws his pay-check every two weeks from the club treasurer will tell you it's champagne one day, water the next; a limousine today and a hitch-hike tomorrow.

They know there isn't an awful lot of difference between a pat on the back and a pop bottle out of the stands.

Take a look at a couple of this year's examples—Long Lonnie Warneke, one of the few reasons the St. Louis Cardinals are still in the National League, and Johnny Vander Meer, the double-no-hit kid, whose tossing tricks earlier in the year boosted the Cincinnati Reds into the money.

For weeks, Long Lou was getting exactly nowhere. And Frankie Frisch, who has enough worries (things being what they are with the gasless Gas Housers) had just one more reason for his thinning grey locks.

LONNIE HOT

It's not that the Cards are going anywhere at any great rate, even now. But still, the six-footer from Arkansas has returned to form, gone the route in five of his last six starts, allowed just eight runs in 52 innings and won four out of five, three of them shutouts.

Lonnie's latest was a four-hit 5-0 whitewashing over the league-leading Pittsburgh Pirates yesterday in a game cut to seven innings by rain. It ended the Bucs' three-game winning streak and gave Warnecke the distinction of blanking them for the first time since July 20.

Vander Meer, now, has been running just the reverse. Young Johnny tossed two no-hitters in a row, if you remember, and was instantly libelled the hottest thing to come down the pike in years.

But Johnny has failed to go the route in his last five starts, boasts just one victory in seven trips to the post since mid-July and has been tagged for 26 runs in about 45 innings, which goes to show you how fast things can change. Yesterday he went against the Chicago Cubs, but his boom-boom ball was belted for four runs in the eighth frame, and the happy Hartnetts took a 6-3 decision.

CUBS CLIMBING

By the win, the Cubs climbed to within half-a-game of the New York Giants, who were given a neat and thorough going over by the Boston Bees, 8-3, and remained 6½ games off the Pittsburgh pace. The scheduled Philadelphia - Brooklyn night game was rained out.

The Yankes held their five-game edge in the American League by nipping the Senators, 12-11, in a wierd 10-inning affair. A walk with the bases loaded forced in the winning run. Cleveland's second-place Indians had to stage a five-run rally in the ninth to top the St. Louis Browns, 9-6.

Bruins' Hockey Star Injured

William "Bill" Cowley, star center of the Boston Bruins hockey team, was critically injured today at Renfrew, Canada, when the automobile in which he was riding skidded and overturned three times.

Hauled from the wreckage with two companions, Cowley was taken to Renfrew Hospital, where he was treated for gashes on the face and head, a possible fractured skull and probable internal injuries.

Cowley was returning to Ottawa from Barr's Bay with Bob Hoag, 21, and Wally Driscoll, 21, two of his teammates on the Barding Brothers baseball club, an Ottawa organization.

Hoag and Driscoll suffered only cuts and bruises.

415 Boats Sail At Marblehead

By CAPTAIN CUTWATER

MARBLEHEAD, Aug. 11—Setting spinnakers in a dash for the finish line, Marblehead's famous race week entered the final leg of its course today under Corinthian Yacht Club record of 401 boats by new record safely in the locker.

After surpassing the old Boston Yacht Club recor dof 401 boats by starting 415 yesterday, the midsummer series spread every last stitch of canvas in an effort to surpass the 1937 Corinthian record of 436.

The remarkable thing about this year's new marks is that they are being set without the aid of odd classes, small junior divisions or unknown relics of unsuccessful one-design classes.

The charge hurled by jealous New York yachtsmen, that Marblehead's steadily mounting records are obtained by adding in every kayak on the coast, are thoroughly refuted by a glance at the summaries.

More big boats are racing in this Race Week than for several years past. Finishing first in yesterday's cruising rating class, for instance, was Marilee, one of the old New York Forties, now owned by C. Brooks Stevens.

Given a modern rig, this old-timer outdistanced such new boats as Dauntless, new Alden yawl, and Dev. Barker's lofty-sparred Good Hope.

Harry Colburn's Mohawk in the Indian Class with Bob Dalrymple, old Dartmouth track star, at the helm, won the Boston trophy, but Jim Boston, Eastern titlist, was a 16-second runner-up in yesterday's race, sailed in the sunny southeaster that the Boston traditionally affords.

A feature of the intersectional racing was Homer Clark's victory for Rockport with his Sans Souci in the Star Class, with a team-mate, Max Kaehne, in Tempest, second.

BEACH POLLUTION PROBE BOARD NAMED

(Other Story on Page 5)

Immediate investigation of the sewage pollution of Greater Boston bathing beaches was promised today with the appointment of the full complement of members of the special recess commission authorized by the Legislature to conduct the probe.

Speaker of the House Horace T. Cahill has named five of that body to sit with Senators Harris S. Richardson (R.) and Joseph P. Donahue (D.), already appointed to the commission by President Samuel H. Wragg of the Senate.

The five chosen by Speaker Cahill are: Reps. Joseph Milano (R.), Melrose; William Hastings (R.), Malden; Joseph Whiton (R.), Quincy; Albert Morris (D.), Everett, and George F. McMahon (D.), Roxbury.

"The positive evidence of bathing beach sewage pollution obtained by Boston Evening American and Boston Sunday Advertiser analytical chemists will be placed at the disposal of the commission when the hearings begin.

"Usually I do not appoint recess commissions until after the Legislature has prorogued," Speaker Cahill declared today, "but the urgency of the pollution problem demanded speedy action so that our beaches are made safe for adults and juveniles."

Similarly, Senate President Wragg saw an emergency to be met when he named Senators Richardson and Donahue to the commission.

"This is a situation that calls for immediate action," he declared, "and I hope the commission will meet at the earliest possible moment to tackle the big job ahead of its members.

"The survey undertaken by the American and Sunday Advertiser

Plane Nears Hub

By Associated Press

The German transatlantic airplane Brandenburg, en route from Berlin to New York on a non-stop flight, reached the American continent at noon Boston time today when she passed over St. John, N. B.

The plane flew over Newfoundland, then cut across New Brunswick as she headed for Maine.

In her latest report to Radio Marine Corporation at Chatham, the ship said she was flying at 6000 feet at a speed of about 155 miles an hour.

The naval radio station at Cape Elizabeth, Me., reported it had given a radio bearing to a plane, believed to be the Brandenburg, at a point 80 miles east of Portland.

WEATHER OVERCAST

The weather was overcast along the New England coast with a threat of rain.

Boston airport officials estimated the distance from St. John to New York at 510 air miles. In the event the Brandenburg maintained the same speed as when last reported the plane should reach her destination about 3 p. m. Boston time.

Nearly 16 hours after her sudden takeoff with a crew of four, she reported her position to Radio Marine Corporation here as about 500 miles from Newfoundland.

Next reports were from over Newfoundland, then from just north of Prince Edward Island.

The four-motored monoplane left Berlin at 7:53 p. m. last night (2:53 p. m. E. D. T.).

3942-MILE GRIND

The airline distance from Berlin to New York is calculated to be 3942 miles.

The ship was piloted by Captain Alfred Henke, Lufthansa veteran of many South Atlantic flights, and Captain Rudolf von Moreau of the air force.

There also were a chief engineer and a radio operator, Paul Dierberg and Walter Kober.

Speed Action—President Samuel H. Wragg of State Senate and Speaker Horace T. Cahill of House, who plan special recess committee to act on polluted condition of waters at nearby beaches.

7 Men Rescued as Sloop Capsizes in Charles River

Patrolman Lorne R. Green of the Metropolitan police, saved seven Cambridge men from death after their sailboat capsized in the Charles River today.

Those rescued gave their names as follows:

Francis O'Connor, Oxford street; Joseph Bates, Russell street; Thomas A. Jones, Prentiss street; Richard T. Collins, Appleton street; Ted C. Griffin, Wendell street; James O'Leary, Columbia street and James Walsh of Lexington avenue, all of Cambridge.

They were thrown into the water when a sudden squall overturned the sloop in which they were sailing near the West Boston bridge.

Patrolman Green, making a routine trip up the river in a motor launch of the Lower Basin Metropolitan station, heard the outcries of the men and found them near the middle of the stream, about 400 feet off the Cambridge sea wall.

Using ropes and life preservers from the police boat, Patrolman Green pulled the seven men from the water single-handed. They were put ashore at the public landing near Massachusetts Institute of Technology, then the officer recovered their boat.

All seven returned home by their automobiles and none was reported suffering any serious effects from the mishap.
